MRS. CUSUMANO ESCAPES DEATH CELL

APPEAL TO SAVE MRS. CUSUMANO

Transfer of Woman and Her Accomplice From Plymouth Jail to the Charlestown Death Cell Delayed; Clemency Plea.

Mrs. Lena Cusumano, condemned to die in the electric chair during the week of June 2, and Enrico Mascioli, also condemned to die at the same time, both for the murder of Mrs. Cusumano's husband, will not be removed to State Prison from Plymouth jail until the first of next week.

Sheriff Henry S. Porter of Plymouth said today: "The counsel for the two prisoners will send down to the jail at once petitions for their signatures. These petitions will be immediately forwarded to Governor Foss, and I have every reason to believe that the papers in the case will then be put at once before the council for immediate action."

Under the leadership of Mrs. Florence Spooner, head of the Anti-Death Penalty League, a mighty protest has been voiced against the woman's execution.

Those who are fighting to save Mrs. Cusumano from the chair have many arguments.

They declare that for a woman to die under Massachusetts laws would be a blot on the Commonwealth's history, and a reversion to the days of the Salem witches.

They declare that the death penalty is barbarous and should be abolished for men as well as women.

They point to the fact that the State prison is not equipped for handling women prisoners, and has no conveniences for them.

They declare that Mrs. Cusumano was convicted on purely circumstantial evidence.

They assert that her story that Mascioli, after he had murdered her husband, threatened her into silence, has the ring of truth.

They believe that there is a possibility the man exercised a hypnotic influence over her.

Thousands Sign Petitions.

The fight to save the woman takes the form of a plea for the commutation of her sentence, filed today with Governor Foss, as well as the commutation of Mascioli's sentence. Besides this, there are thousands of women who have signed petitions, now on their way to the Governor, urging him to act.

Newspapers throughout the State have editorially commented on the situation, and urged the changing of the woman's sentence.

Meanwhile, Warden Bridges at the State

CHINESE PREMIER'S LIFE ATTEMPTED

PEKIN, May 23.—While President Yuan Shi Kai was holding a conference with Premier Tang Shao Yi and a number of other officials in government house today, Chang Ting Ling, a disgruntled former office holder, who had been ousted from his position, entered the room and, drawing a revolver, fired five shots at the Premier. All the shots missed. Chang was overpowered and arrested.

RICHESON HEIRS GET LIFE INSURANCE

Clarence V. T. Richeson's heirs, according to dispatches today from Chicago, will collect on the insurance policy of $2,000 carried by him in an Illinois insurance company. "That policy will be paid," said Vice-President Stevens of the company. "I understand we could avoid payment, but we shall not try to take advantage of a technicality."

ABANDON HOPE FOR WRIGHT

DAYTON, O., May 22.—Hope for the recovery of Wilbur Wright, aviator and inventor, who is ill with typhoid fever at his home here, was practically abandoned today. His brother Orville said:

"There is not more than one chance in a thousand for my brother to recover, the doctors say, and we fear that he cannot last until night."

Wilbur Wright was born April 16, 1867, near Millville, Ind., son of Bishop Milton Wright. He shares with his brother Orville the honor of being perfector of the aeroplane, or heavier than air flying machine.

Wilbur Wright received his education at the elementary and high schools. He is unmarried. He has devoted most of his life to the development of the biplane, beginning with gliders.

His first notable flights were made at Kittyhawk, N. C., in 1903. He sold a biplane to the United States government for $30,000. The French rights he sold for $500,000. He made numerous flights at home and abroad, being awarded a gold medal in 1909 by the French Academy of Science. He has received numerous other honors.

Studied Flying Early.

The interest of his brother and himself in ariel navigation dates from their childhood. Late in the Autumn of 1878, their father presented to the boys a flying toy. It was known as a helicopter, a light frame of cork and bamboo, covered with paper and driven by rubber bands.

Several years later the Wright boys began building helicopters for themselves, making each one larger. But they found that the larger the machine the less it flew. They finally became discouraged and returned to kite-flying.

It was not until the news of the death of Lilienthal reached America in the Summer of 1896 that they again gave more than passing attention to flying. They then studied with great interest Chanute's "Progress in Flying Machines," Langley's "Experiments in Aerodynamics" and several pamphlets published by the Smithsonian Institution.

Wilbur and Orville began their active experiments in October, 1900, at Kittyhawk. Their machine was flown as a kite, with a man on board, in winds of from fifteen to twenty miles an hour. But upon trial it was found that much stronger winds were needed to lift it. In the Summer of 1901 they became acquainted with Octave Chanute. He encouraged them. He spent several weeks at the Wright camp. The machine of 1901 was built with the shape of surface used by Lilienthal. In September and October, 1902, nearly one thousand flights were made by the brothers in gliders.

Flights with Power.

The first flights with a power machine were made on December 17, 1903. Only five persons beside the brothers were present. These were John T. Daniels, W. S. Dough, A. D. Etheridge, W. C. Brinkley, and John Ward. The first flight lasted twelve seconds. The second and third were a little longer, and the fourth lasted fifty-nine seconds, covering a distance of 852 feet over the ground against a twenty-mile wind.

In the Spring of 1904 the brothers built a camp at Simms Station, eight miles east of Dayton, O. Their new machine was heavier and stronger than the first one. After that the Wrights progressed rapidly.

In 1908 the Wrights were the only men who could fly. Today there are thousands of them.

FREE CANAL FOR COASTWISE SHIPS VOTED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 23.—On a rollcall vote today the house adopted the Doremus amendment to the Panama Canal bill providing that American owned vessels engaged in the coastwise trade shall have free use of the Panama Canal. The bill as reported by the Ways and Means Committee provides that tolls be assessed against the ships. The house overturned the committee action by a vote of 147 to 128. The adoption of the amendment was greeted with loud cheering, members from the Pacific Coast being especially enthusiastic. The canal bill was passed by the House on a viva voce vote.

ADVERSE WOOL REPORT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—The Senate Finance Committee today voted to report adversely the House woolen bill. Senator Smoot was authorized to make the report.

500 MARINES ARE ORDERED TO CUBA; INTERVENTION BY U. S. IS PROBABLE

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Five hundred marines have been ordered to sail from the League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia, on the Prairie today, to join the force now at the United States Naval station at Guantanamo, Cuba. The force is under the command of Colonel Karmany, U. S. M. C.

Rush orders also were issued today to naval stations along the Atlantic coast to hold all marines in readiness for immediate movement, and orders were sent from Key West to the gunboats Nashville and Paducah, now at Guantanamo, to clear for action and place themselves in position to protect American interests at that point. Today's movement of marines followed closely on the receipt of disturbing dispatches from Guantanamo, which stated that 3,000 armed negroes are marching toward the United States Reservation.

The State Department today transmitted to President Gomes the statement that the United States must demand that the naval station at Guantanamo, together with the lives and property of the American citizens, be adequately protected.

NEW SUBWAY JOB AWARDED

The contract for the first section of the $16,000,000 subway that will extend from the Park sirct station at Tremont street to the South Station, and from there to Andrews Square in Dorchester, was awarded to the Coughlin & Shields Company on a bid of $241,475 by the Transit Commission today.

This section will run between Tremont and Washington streets, down Winter street.

The next lowest bid for the work was $276,000, submitted by Miller, O'Riordon & Miller.

WANT DIVORCED MAN TO SUPPORT WIFE

Judge Chase in the Superior Criminal Court today heard arguments in the case of Joseph Holmes said his wife, Rosella, who were married in Boston in 1906 and divorced in Reno in 1910. It is claimed that after a warrant for non-support was issued in this State that Holmes induced his wife to accompany him to Nevada where she got a divorce against him. It is now claimed the Nevada divorce was obtained by fraud and that the man is responsible for the support of his wife and child in this State on the strength of the non-support warrant.

WASHBURN URGED AS CRANE'S SUCCESSOR

Representative Robert M. Washburn of Worcester is the latest Republican to be mentioned as a possible successor to United States Senator Winthrop Murray Crane. Several Republican members of the lower branch of the Legislature waited upon Representative Washburn today at the State House and urged him to permit the use of his name as a candidate for Crane's place.

Representative Washburn's record in the House is regarded as conservative. He has been one of the strongest opponents in the Legislature of the direct elections of United States Senators, the federal income tax and was one of the fifteen members of the House to vote against direct nominations last year.

FINDS FATHER DEAD ON PRODUCE WAGON

Eugene H. Clark, aged thirty-eight, a produce dealer of Hyde Park, was found dead on the seat of his market wagon in the shed today by his eight-year-old boy, Willie. Mr. Clark had been left on the wagon seat the night before by John Hession, who went to Boston markets with him. Dr. Vernon Clought Clark was acting Medical Examiner Sutherland said death was due to apoplexy. Mr. Clark lived at No. 748 Hyde Park avenue. Hession drove the loaded wagon into Clark's shed last night and put up the horse without disturbing Clark, who had fallen asleep on the way home. He told Mrs. Clark her husband was asleep on the wagon and probably would be in the house soon. Mrs. Clark retired.

NEW ROAD IN HANDS OF SENATE

The coming of the Grand Trunk Railway to the Port of Boston is now in the hands of the forty members of the Massachusetts Senate.

The House of Representatives passed the Grand Trunk bill this afternoon by an almost unanimous vote.

The success of the Grand Trunk measure followed an attempt to tack an amendment on to the bill giving the Board of Railroad Commissioners mandatory power to fix the rates and regulate the service on the new railroad.

The author of this amendment was Representative Robert M. Washburn of Worcester.

Amendment Beaten.

The Washburn amendment was defeated on a roll-call, 58 to 160. A spirited debate, lasting an hour and a half, preceded the sweeping victory of the commercial organizations of the State.

Martin Lomasney, Democratic leader, did everything in his power to help Washburn with his amendment. Lomasney is the most powerful individual member of the House.

Against the Washburn proposition, however, were lined up Judge Meaney of Blackstone, George H. Ellis of Newton, House chairman of the railroad committee, John H. Coggswell of Lynn, O'Hearn of North Adams and others.

The contention of these friends of the Grand Trunk bill was that it would be unfair to give the Railroad Commission such powers over Grand Trunk rates and services as the commission does not possess over the existing railroads.

The fact Washburn's amendment is also before the House in the form of a separate bill—and that this bill is on the program for consideration and vote tomorrow—helped to defeat the amendment today.

Debate on Amendment.

The debate on the Washburn proposal lasted an hour and a half. Representative Ellis opened the debate:

"I am not opposed to the Washburn amendment," he said, "if applied to all railroads, but it is unfair to apply it to one railroad alone."

Representative Baxley of Uxbridge, also a member of the Committee on Railroads, took the same ground as Mr. Ellis.

Mr. Lomasney said:

"I am for the Grand Trunk. I want to see it come in. But I want it to come in under proper regulation. This amendment will put the railroad under the control of the Railroad Commission. We should put all the railroads under the control of the Railroad Commission."

Representative Cogswell interrupted to suggest: "The Railroad Commission can

"Love Is Better Than Riches"

Millions Cannot Bar Out Cupid

MRS. JAMES A. GARLAND

"Money isn't everything and love is, or pretty nearly," says widow. Her fiance hints perhaps her husband-to-be has millions enough for both. Tells of plans for the simple wedding

By ELIZABETH ELLIOT.

Mrs. James A. Garland, at her beautiful home at Bourne, on Buzzards Bay, told me frankly today why she is relinquishing the income of $10,000,000 to marry Francis Cushing Green, her schoolday friend and sweetheart.

She is doing it for love.

Mrs. Garland, beautiful, sweet, womanly, told me this, and when she said it I knew that she told the truth. And it made my heart glow to appreciate that in this day of cold commercialism love means more to some people than money.

The fascinating young widow said this to me in so many words—that money isn't everything and that love is.

"And you are giving up $10,000,000 for love?" I asked incredulously.

"Certainly," she replied, instantly, emphatically.

Mrs. Garland smiled. But her smile emphasized her words. It was the smile of a woman who was as nearly happy as one can be. I did not doubt her for a single moment.

"I am marrying for love," added Mrs. Garland, who is to become Mr. Green's bride on Saturday.

"YOU SEE," SHE SAID, "MONEY ISN'T EVERYTHING AND LOVE IS—OR PRETTY NEARLY.

Then she told me some of the few plans for the wedding.

"There really isn't much to tell," said Mrs. Garland. "It's to be very simple, you know."

She had got that far when a large, gray touring car drained up to the gate. A well-

ANOTHER BUILDING COLLAPSE

Workmen Leap to Adjoining Roof or Cling Outside to Window Casings as All Interior Work of 4-Story Structure Falls

Nine workmen barely escaped death today in the collapse of the interior work of an old brick building which is being remodelled at No. 9 Charter street, North End.

The men were on the second and third floors. They escaped through the windows, most of them to the roof of an adjoining building.

Antonio Del Signora, the contractor, who lives at No. 61 Charter street, said afterward that if the workmen had been on the second floor all would have been killed. Del Signora declared an inspector for the building department of the city of Boston inspected the construction a week ago and declared it all right.

Everett Has a Look

Building Commissioner Arthur G. Everett with an inspector, reached the build ing half an hour or so after the collapse.

Mr. Everett looked trim in a light gray suit, gray gloves, derby hat and shining shoes. He and the inspector walked clear around the building and peered in at every window and door. When he had finished his inspection, a reporter for the AMERICAN approached him, and there was this colloquy:

Have you determined the cause of the collapse, Mr. Everett?

I have nothing to say.

How long ago was this building inspected?

I can't say a thing.

Have you any statement to make whatever?

I can't say a thing.

How soon will you be able to make a statement?

I can't say.

The inspector with Mr. Everett was not so reticent. When asked the cause of the collapse, he said:

"I think, from the look of the debris inside, that some one of the debris materials has been overweighted and fell through."

Afterward Everett said:

"It's all due to the carelessness of the contractor. There was nothing the matter with the building, and this accident would not have happened had not the contractor piled so much brick and other material on one portion of the top of it. The building department is not at fault. It's all due to the contractor's carelessness."

Building Passed as "Safe."

The statement of Del Signora, made as soon as he found all his workmen had got out, was as follows:

"I knew the idea what caused the collapse. There must have been something weak. It's beyond me. I've been over the building myself two or three times, and everything was all right."

"I am glad, for one thing, nobody was injured. If they had been on the street floor all would have been killed."

"It was about a week ago that the building inspector came around and said that everything was all right; that there was no danger of any collapse, and that the work was going on well.

"I am at a loss to understand how it ever happened."

Oliver Was Inspector.

The building which collapsed today was inspected, according to Del Signora, the contractor, by Inspector Edwin H. Oliver of the city building department, the same inspector who was suspended after the fatal collapse at Hanover and Battery streets, on October 10 last, when three men were killed and two were seriously hurt.

Mayor Fitzgerald ordered a rigid investigation, and the accident was called to the attention of the Suffolk Grand Jury, which, however, reported no indictment.

The Boston Finance Commission held that Joseph Adolph, the builder, who was among the killed, was primarily responsible, and that the city building department was secondarily responsible.

The Finance Commission recommended that Inspector Oliver, in charge of the building district, be disciplined. Oliver was suspended by order of the Mayor. On December 5 Oliver was reinstated.

Building Commissioner Arthur G. Everett, whose department was held by the Finance Commission as "primarily responsible," told Mayor Fitzgerald Oliver had been sufficiently punished for any failure on his part to do his full duty.

Called Every Day.

Del Signora explained:

"I began work on this building five weeks ago. There has been a regular inspection since that time at least two or three times a week. Sometimes the inspector would come every day for a while. Inspector Oliver was the man that called here.

"Floor timbers in nearly every case were the original four timbers of the house. I don't think it is possible they could have given way at the end. They must have broken through the centre."

The building inspector who came with

SAW DORR AND MARSH IN AUTO

LYNN, May 23.—What the Lynn police consider as the missing link in the long chain not evidence in the murder of George E. Marsh was discovered today when Henry Farrell, superintendent of the Lynn Board of Health, filed a sworn affidavit with the police that he had seen William A. Dorr, accused of the murder, and Marsh together in an automobile.

This, he said, was on the afternoon of April 11. Mr. Farrell saw Dorr and Marsh in an automobile with a black body driving through East Lynn. He identified the automobile found in Boston as one he saw them riding in.

Chief Thomas Burckes said: "This is the first time that we have found anybody who saw Dorr and Marsh together, and in my mind completes the chain of evidence against Dorr."

U. S. CONSUL HILL KILLED IN GERMANY

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, May 23.—Frank D. Hill, United States consul-general to this city, was instantly killed today by falling over the railing of a staircase in a hotel here. His skull was fractured. Mr. Hill was a native of Minnesota. He is believed to have fallen during an attack of vertigo.

NINE INJURED IN BUILDING COLLAPSE

Inspector Who Was Suspended After Accident "Passed Building."

WRECKED BUILDING AND COMMISSIONER EVERETT

Building Commissioner Everett remarked he thought the collapse might have been due to overweight on the floors. Del Signora said about that:

"I don't think that's at all possible. There was no overweight on those floors. There were only a few bricks, not enough weight to make the floors give way. We started this building from the bottom and worked up. We made it as strong as we possibly could. I do not believe the weight of the materials we had on those floors was sufficient to break the timbers. They were not spliced timbers. They ran the entire width of the building and were braced in the middle as well."

During the unofficial investigation of police and firemen, preceding the official one which the city building department is required to make, the question was raised whether charred timbers were used in remodeling the building. The police say the timbers were damaged in a fire in the building some time ago.

Say Old Brick Was Used.

The structure which was being remodeled was a four-story brick one. The back wall was up. The side walls were party walls to adjoining buildings and did not seem to be of new brick, but to be the original walls of the old building.

The old front wall had been dismantled to the second-story level and what was left standing had been reinforced with extra brick. Old brick was said to have been used in this reinforcement.

The inside work was well under way. The floor timbers and studding had been carried up to the second and third floors. The ground floor was the one in the old building. The nine workmen were all above the street. Two were putting in timbers at the second floor. The other seven were on the third floor.

There was a cracking noise. The nine men stopped for nothing more. Five on the third floor dived through a window frame to the roof of an adjoining building. The other two men on that floor got out on the roof somehow.

Sarrvario Masara and Gaetano Venti, on the second floor, sprang for the window casings. They did not jump to the ground but clung to the outer part of the casings while brick, mortar and timbers were crashing down inside the structure.

Jumped Just in Time.

It was lucky for the workmen they jumped at the the first crack. The whole interior collapsed and fell to the first floor.

The police and firemen, first to investigate, thought the floor timbers might have pulled from their sockets in the south party wall or that the timbers themselves might have given way in the middle from the weight of brick and other material resting on them.

Whatever caused the collapse, studding, joists, floor timbers, brick and mortar fell together, piling up on the first floor boarding with a tremendous crash and clouds of dust.

The rear wall stood intact. Five or six feet of the two-story front wall crumbled, bricks going inside to the ruins or outside to the street. A portion of the party wall on the south side fell.

The collapse came at 5 a. m. Someone rang in a fire alarm from Box 10, but firemen were not needed. The excitable North End tenement dwellers rushed to the spot, but were kept back by the police, who roped off the space about the fallen building.

When the seven workmen on the third floor, who escaped by way of the roof, ran around to the Charter street front, and when Marsara and Venti dropped from their finger-holds on the second story window casings, the police found that neither death nor serious injury had, by merest chance, resulted from the crash. Venti had a bruised shoulder where a brick had hit.

The question of charred timber was raised when reporters, firemen and police entered the premises.

Some of the disclosed and broken timbers looked burned. The rear wall, from the third to the top floor, is black, as though it had been scorched by flame and smudged by smoke. One big floor timber was observed in particular. It was hanging by one end to a socket in the south party wall. It looked charred. First Deputy Fire Chief John Grady and District Chief Pat Fox both remarked on the charred appearance of the big stick.

CHARGES MELLEN PLANS RATE WAR ON GRAND TRUNK

NEW YORK, May 23.—Samuel Untermyer declared before the Supreme Court that President Mellen of the New Haven is laying his plans for a rate war within a comparatively short time with the Grand Trunk in New England and Canada.

In his argument for an injunction to stay the transfer of the Rutland Railroad Company property to the New York, New Haven & Hartford from the New York Central, Untermyer attacked the Public Service Commission of the second district, which approved the transfer, and charged it with betraying the interest of the people of the State.

Mr. Untermyer said that when President Mellen of the New Haven said before the Public Service Commission that he wanted the Rutland road to use as a "club," his real meaning was that he desired the Rutland as a means with which to war upon the Grand Trunk in competition for traffic.

Suffrage War in Unitarian Church

Women of Bay State Protest 'Votes'

Move Against Action of National Association; Want Women "Non-Partisan."

Prominent Unitarian women connected with the Massachusetts association which is opposed to the further extension of woman's suffrage, in a communication to the public today, protest against the acts of the American Unitarian Association in coming out for woman's suffrage.

The anti-suffragists declare that they can do better work for women and the community by remaining non-partisan. This is their statement:

We, the undersigned Unitarian women, deeply interested in the welfare of our church and State, in our own name and in behalf of the many hundred Unitarian women belonging to the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women, earnestly protest against the action indorsing woman suffrage taken at the annual business meeting of the American Unitarian Association at Tremont Temple Tuesday afternoon, May 21.

We believe this hasty action does not represent the wishes of the majority of Unitarian women.

Women today are the only non-partisan workers for the public good and through this independence can best fulfil their special work for their sex and for the community.

(Signed)

Mrs. Thomas Allen, Miss Mary S. Ames, Mrs. W. H. Burleigh, Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., Mrs. Charles

MISS MARY S. AMES.

Miss Ames is among the Massachusetts Unitarian women signing the protest against the declaration for suffrage by the American Unitarian Association.

Women's Usefulness May Be Preserved Without the Ballot.

Eliot Guild, Mrs. Charles D. Hemans, Miss Elizabeth Johnson, Mrs. Prescott Keyes, Mrs. Henry P. Kidder, Mrs. Frederick T. Lord, Mrs. Grant William Nowell, Miss L. C. Post, Mrs. Charles P. Strong, Mrs. W. W. Vaughan.

One of the women connected with the anti-suffrage organization stated that there are in this State 16,000 women of prominence who are opposed to an extension of women's suffrage.

I simply MUST have CASH

Georges

NOT only have I given up all hope of a penny's profit on this season's business, but I have resigned myself to take an enormous loss from now on. Usual competition, I welcome—but the weather man has me on the run.

I cannot stand the gaff any longer. My success is absolutely dependent upon the quick selling of the GEORGES MODEL CLOTHES produced daily in high grade custom tailoring shops throughout the country. With 21 days of rain in Boston during April, and a likelihood of even more this month, and with conditions in New York, Philadelphia, Providence and Buffalo equally hopeless, you can well understand that my five great stores are loaded to the roof with more than a million dollars' worth of medium and lightweight Suits and Overcoats, half of which should have been in your hands and the cash in mine 30 days ago.

I am face to face with the most serious crisis I have ever confronted—nor am I alone in this respect. Scores of concerns are today on the verge of actual FAILURE—but they are trying to suppress the real state of their affairs. I have the courage and honesty to come out openly and tell the public of my predicament, because I know that men who would put off buying a $15.00 suit for example, although it be a splendid value, will quickly snap up that same suit, when marked as I have marked all of mine, at $9.50, and that means cash for me—and my present condition makes this the one and only consideration I dare think of. I'm game to the core, I'll cheerfully take my medicine, and if there's the slightest doubt of this please witness the tremendous sacrifice I am making.

TODAY the doors swing open in this most marvellous of clothing events, and if men judge this sale by those that have helped make me famous, my stores in all five cities will be crowded to an overflow by all my old customers and every other man who appreciates truly remarkable values.

Here's the Bulletin of the Suit & Overcoat Reductions

A Brief History of GEORGES

"Nothing Succeeds Like Success" and I Am Successful

A WAY back in 1879 I originated the sale of Merchant Tailors' uncalled for garments. But with the opening of more stores the demand soon exceeded the supply. Then I conceived the idea, out of which grew GEORGES FAMOUS MODEL CLOTHES, fashioned by the most famous custom style creators in the country. I am obliged to take a certain contracted number of such garments each day, in addition to the output of my own custom shops in New York. This number is based on an anticipated increase in the business of all my five stores—that's why, at a time like this, of such hopeless weather and business conditions, I am bit harder than the stores selling ready-mades.

These GEORGES MODEL CLOTHES, which I regularly sell at $15 to $40, are absolutely distinctive in every line from ready-mades, a full year ahead in style, actually equalling Merchant Tailors' finest $30 to $75 products.

Out of many thousands of two and three-piece Suits and Lightweight Overcoats we briefly describe 4 Examples of Value

The severe losses I am taking necessitate charging for alterations at cost

Rain Coats

I AM not a so-called Specialty Raincoat Store, but I carry one of the largest stocks, not alone in Boston, but in all the cities where I am located. I have every style imaginable—prices range from $5 to $25. Not alone men's coats, but a number of mannish models for women. The $5 and $6 rubberized raincoats I carried over from last season go in this sale at $2

Georges Conservative Suit Model

Sack suit, style 3-button, short rolling lapel. Shoulders medium. The back of coat drapes perfectly straight with centre vent. Vest and trousers in keeping with coat. Color Oxford gray, material of soft, unfinished velour. The equal of any Thirty Dollar made-to-order. Specially designed by one of New York's fashion creators to meet the demand of the quiet dresser. Our former price $15. To raise cash, now reduced to $9.50

A Georges Norfolk Model

The style cycle has again turned to the Norfolk; and keen Americans of the younger class are welcoming the return of this clever style suit. One we specially mention is fine soft finished serge, color "Electric Blue." The pleated and belted effect is entirely distinctive from Ready-made, and if built to your measure would cost you at least Forty Dollars. Our former price $22.50. Now reduced to $14.50

Odd Trousers

EVERY man should possess a couple of pairs. I've taken all my striped Worsteds and Serge Trousers, also my new model Flannels, in plain white and gray and fancy stripes that should bring me $5 and $6 — and have slashed them to $3.50

For the convenience of those who cannot call during the day, and desire an early selection, store will be open tonight and Friday till 9 P.M.; Saturday till 10:30.

$10,000 Pursuit of Eloper

Follow Young Mott Over Sea

Harvard Man Shipped as a Purser and Actress as a Stewardess.

Disinherited by his multimillionaire father and his credit cut off in every corner of the globe, Jordan Lawrence Mott, 3d, whose escapades while at Harvard are still remembered, writer of sea tales and son of the founder of the Mott Iron Works, is working his way across the Atlantic as a purser on the British freighter Indradeo. With him in the guise and doing the tasks of a stewardess is a woman who is believed today to be Mrs. Walter Bowne, wife of a scion of one of the oldest families in Flushing and a member of the fashionable Long Island set.

On the Kron Prinz Wilhelm, which sailed Tuesday for Gibraltar and Mrs. Jordan Lawrence Mott, parents of the "purser." On the Mauretania, due to beat the Kron Prinz to Gibraltar by several hours, is Hector Fuller, war correspondent and soldier of fortune, globe trotting partner of Mott, who intends to take young Jordan off the Indradeo by force if necessary.

Mott's flight for China is the climax to a sensational career of a man thirty years old, who has lived a hundred in adventure and worldly experience. While still a youth he won a reputation as a writer of fiction. At nineteen he ran away from the Lawrence Scientific School at Harvard with Miss Carolyn Pitkin, daughter of a Thayer Academy professor.

While living at No. 35 Langdon street, Cambridge, and continuing his studies at Harvard, Mott was sued for $25,000 by Christina Marsh, a New York actress, who alleged breach of promise.

Mott wrote voluminously for a time and was hailed as a coming famous author. Then he took to drinking heavily and began to suffer hallucinations. His careless use of firearms caused his young wife to flee to her father-in-law for protection.

Destroys Son's Credit.

Mott, senior, became frantic. To check his son's mad career he engaged Hector Fuller, the war correspondent, to take young Mott on a trip around the world on a tramp steamer and if at the end the young man had not taken a drink, Fuller was to receive $20,000. Passage was engaged and the craft was to have sailed from New York last week. Jordan accepted the ultimatum of his father and sold the story of the trip in advance to a magazine.

Two weeks ago young Mott and Fuller went to the Mott estate at Pilantry, N. C., for some shooting. Last week the woman appeared on the scene.

Hearing of her presence at Pilantry, Mott, senior, disinherited his son and destroyed his credit in every city in this country and abroad. Six trunks of clothing were held at Pilantry, leaving him with only two suits.

Then, with credit tightened to the limit, the young man went to Fuller and said he would agree to make the trip to sea if he might take the woman along. Fuller assented but too readily, and Jordan became suspicious. Fuller made an attempt to shanghai the young recalcitrant, but was unsuccessful.

In the meantime Jordan set himself and the woman in the case up in apartments in Amsterdam avenue, but no trace of him was found until Monday evening when the Indradeo sailed. Then it became known that one "L. Martin," who signed on ship as a purser, was Jordan Lawrence Mott, and a new stewardess was undoubtedly Mrs. Bowne.

Fuller Starts Pursuit.

Fuller then resolved to capture Jordan at any cost, and the fight began in earnest. Securing a letter of credit for $10,000 from the elder Mott, he sailed for Gibraltar on the Mauretania. The parents of Mott joined the chase on the Kron Prinz. Jordan L. Mott, Jr., is of powerful physique, despite his dissipation, but Fuller, who is almost fifty, has whipped him in a fight. The latter's influence is the only restraining power the young man has ever recognized.

Mr. Bowne said today that Jordan had long been infatuated with his wife and that he had no doubt that it was she who took passage on the Indradeo.

"I have reason to believe that Mott pursued her after she left me," said Bowne. "I believe he followed her company through Pennsylvania, and that she joined him after her show closed in Pottsville, Pa., two weeks ago."

R. H. GOULD WEDS ANNA K. SPENCER

In Grace Episcopal Church at Newton, Miss Anna Katherine Spencer, Wellesley '11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb S. Spencer, of Hunnewell avenue, Boston, became the bride of Richard H. Gould, M. I. T. '11, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gould of Newton Upper Falls. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Laurens McLure. The maid of honor was Miss Marion Wetmore of Altoona, Pa., while the best man was Allen Gould, brother of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Rachel Gilmore of Waban, Miss Bertha Whitney of Newtonville, Miss Elizabeth Bower of Brookline and Miss Emma Lynch of Boston.

PILGRIMS SEE REAL COWBOYS

DALLAS, May 23.—The Pilgrims joined some 2,000 other advertising enthusiasts in a side trip to Fort Worth where they were treated to a genuine Texas dinner and witnessed a Wild West show in which cowboys imported by wealthy ranch owners of Fort Worth, performed.

"Coleman," a big Texas steer named for President George W. Coleman of Boston, was slaughtered and served to the official crowd.

Among the speakers at a banquet later was James Schermerhorn, who talked on the value of publicity.

"Publicity can do for us what the light that fell upon the Damascus road did for Saul: it can save us from ourselves," he said. "It is the searchlight turned back upon our own purposes and methods. It can save Nations, States and parties by uncovering the refuge of deceit and the hiding place of duplicity. Some far-sighted corporations are beginning to love light rather than darkness. They are coming out of their secret places to give their side of the case to the common people.

"Advertising may be self-revelation to begin with; but on a long contract it is pretty liable to become self-regenerative. For we all aspire to become what our friends feel we are capable of becoming. It is the distrusted that despair. Publicity is the advertiser's pledge, his covenant with the consumer in the open."

Today, the final day of the convention, will witness the election of officers and selection of the convention city for 1913. It is virtually conceded President Cotemau will be re-elected.

COSTS STUDENTS $10 EACH FOR LIGHTS

The Harvard junior class has decided to instal electric lights in the rooms in the "yard" dormitories. It was not so very long ago that the Harvard students who roomed in the "yard" were forced to be content to study by the use of oil lamps, but next year's graduates will have every modern advantage.

The college authorities declined to make the change so the juniors will do it at a cost of $10 per man.

FINDS ICEBERG DETECTION HARD

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The terror and mystery that hangs about the great white bergs of the Grand Banks, such as that which sank the Titanic, are enhanced by the report of Captain De Carteret of the cable ship Minia, received at the naval hydrographic office.

The report discredits practically all of the methods now in use for discovering the proximity of icebergs at sea.

The Hydrographic Office deduced from Captain De Carteret's report that an ice warning twenty-four hours old would be practically useless to a vessel sailing the north Atlantic. He reported observations which contradicted all present theories regarding the movements of bergs.

"We saw bergs moving northward, even against the wind," said the report, "when according to theory they should have been drifting southward. This was true of one great berg seventy feet high and of peculiar shape. I may say that seventy-five miles east of Cape Race I have seen bergs go past an anchored buoy heeling one mile an hour against a light north wind."

The captain's report also discredited the theory that the proximity of icebergs is marked by a fall in temperature.

"Temperatures taken in the vicinity of icebergs showed no difference from those taken in other parts of the same current," the report said. "A captain might run 100 miles in cold water and never see a single berg. The whole thing is so uncertain that no captain would be justified in making any alteration in his course from the changes in temperature only."

AUTOMATICS SAVE HEAVY FIRE LOSSES

The automatic fire alarms saved heavy fire losses in factory buildings in Boston. One fire was in Lasker's shirtwaist factory at No. 786 Washington street. A second automatic alarm sounded here after the fire was thought out. The other fire was in the office of the Yale Manufacturing Company at No. 48 Hanover street. The loss here was $200.

about to protect others more powerful from any connection with the ill-fated panic of 1907.

The former king of American finance and his wife were booked on the mantfest of the Olympic as plain Mr. and Mrs. Morse. Few of those on board saw them during the trips across, for they spent most of their time in their cabin.

Feeling Much Better.

At the Morse home, No. 127 West Fifty-eighth street, it was said today that Morse was "feeling much better as a result of his trip abroad." No statement was forthcoming from the Morse apartment, and Wrecked by Panic.

"It was the panic of 1907 that wrecked me," Morse told newspaper men and others while a prisoner in the Tombs waiting an appeal from his conviction.

"I did no wrong," he said later, while on his way to Atlanta in the custody of Federal officers to begin his sentence of fifteen years. "There is no one in Wall Street who is not doing what I did. I believe myself to be the victim of a peculiar chain of circumstances—political and financial. The administration at Washington wanted a victim; the system wanted a scapegoat, and I was picked."

While in Atlanta every known power was brought to bear in the hope of having him pardoned. When every other possible loophole was closed to him, an appeal was finally made to President Taft by his ever loyal wife. At first it did no good. Then reports Cost he was dying reached the President. He ordered a staff of physicians and surgeons to make a special investigation and report to him. On their report he was removed from the Federal prison to the Government hospital and there confined during the investigation. These physicians after several months reported to President Taft that "he could not live six months." The commutation followed.

Immediately after his freedom was granted Morse became a changed man. His previous "bad" health quickly disappeared. So much so, that less than three weeks following his release from prison he sailed with his wife for Europe. While abroad various reports reached here concerning his health and mode of living.

His return, and his announcement that he was as "well a man as ever" brought smiles to the countenances of those who, when he was released, remarked that he would be back in Wall street within a year.

Europe Sends Us Best Consumption Remedy

Switzerland has lately been producing a remedy called Sirolin, which has taken the physicians of Europe by storm by its wonderful work in the treating of Consumptives.

So continued have been the successes, and so strong has been the praise accorded it, that Sirolin is now being imported into this country in large quantities.

Sirolin has succeeded where everything else has failed, because it is agreeable to the most delicate stomach and aids the digestion to such a degree that the patient takes on weight rapidly.

It has also received praise on the strength of its being entirely free from harmful and habit-forming drugs, and never fails to relieve the most distressing cough in the most advanced stages of the disease. A booklet, containing much information about Sirolin can be obtained in this country from the Sirolin Company, 81 West Broadway, New York City.

All leading druggists are recommending and dispensing Sirolin with considerable success.

OPPOSE ROOT'S REFUGEE BAN

Unitarian ministers in Arlington Street Church today condemned the Root amendment to the immigration laws excluding political refugees. A resolution to this effect was carried at the meeting of the Fellowship for Social Justice at its annual meeting. Rev. Grover C. Mills of Waterbury said:

"Any one who calls himself a Unitarian should not rest until he opposed the Root amendment to the immigration laws of this country, whereby political refugees will be excluded from this country. This was most unjust at the meeting of the Unitarian Association the other day, because it was not understood."

Rev. Goodwin Smith offered a resolution which urged that any political or sociological test for immigrants be deprecated. It was carried.

Rev. Edgar S. Wolfe of Montclair New Jersey was elected president and Rev. E. K. Gifford of Sandwich secretary and treasurer.

THE REFRIGERATOR PAN.

By MORTON BIRGE.

What is it starts you up at night,
And makes you quake in sudden fright,
And try to recollect aright—
The refrigerator pan.

You think you emptied it and yet—
You paddle out. The floor is wet,
You had forgotten it, you bet!
The refrigerator pan.

The pan is full and overflows,
You lift it gently, goodness knows,
And spill it on your nightie clothes,
The water from the pan.

Some later, when you get to bed,
You wonder you weren't stricken dead,
For all the wicked things you said
Of refrigerator pans.

L ROAD EMPLOYES PROTEST DROPPING OF UNION LEADERS

Leading members of a secret union of the employes of the Boston Elevated Railroad will meet with prominent labor leaders of Boston tomorrow night in the Wells Memorial building to discuss alleged discrimination on the part of the road in discharging men who have been prominent in the formation of the union. Seventy or eighty men were discharged yesterday and today and it is declared that in almost every instance the men had been in the forefront of the new organization which, it is declared, has about 4,000 members. The organization of the men began about six weeks ago. It is said by the men that the company placed spies in their meetings and learned the names of the leaders.

One of the members of the union said today that should a strike be declared they would be able to tie up all of the electric cars of Boston at a moment's notice.

POLICE SEEKING FACTS IN WEBSTER DEATH MYSTERY

WEBSTER, May 23.—The body of a man who the police believe was the victim of murder, was found today in a trench leading to the Maunexit River in this city. The man was about forty-five years old, and it is believed he was a weaver, because a weaver's hook was found in his pocket.

The man was badly bruised about the face and head. Chief of Police Clare said he thought the man had been dead about three weeks. Medical Examiner Bradford has been notified and he will try to determine whether the man was murdered or committed suicide.

KISSING ALLEGED WIFE, ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

When he was about to kiss a woman who said she was his wife, Charles C. Wood, alias Edward Aldrich, twenty-eight years old, was arrested today at Rose's Wharf by Inspectors Burckes and Thorne of the Lynn police and locked up charged with bigamy. The man was pointed out to Mrs. Bertha Shaw Wood, who told the police she married him in 1903 at Cleveland, O. Hearing her husband was living near Boston, Mrs. Wood said she came East and found her husband in Lynn. She learned he married a year ago, she declared.

BRANDEIS FEARS RAILROAD TRICK

Louis D. Brandeis, in the interests of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at the American House today declared Boston needed the electrification of the steam railroads and the tunnel between the North and South stations.

"But," he asked "are the people to be fooled again by promises, and are they to be made to believe that electrification with the metropolitan district or a tunnel between the two stations, even if obtained, would meet the great transportation needs of the Commonwealth which are essential to the prosperity of its industries?

"When the financial condition of the New Haven and of the Boston & Maine is considered, it seems clear that electrification and the tunnel, which are estimated to cost nearly eighty millions, would result in promise only, for they would increase the annual charge upon the railroads by not less than $3,500,000, and that new burden would not bring any appreciable increase to the gross or net operating revenues.

"A large part of the complaint now made of the railroad service is due to the cutting off of trains, and the reduction in the number of employes—so-called economies pursued by the New Haven management with a view to meeting its present deficit. If you added the additional charges incident to electrification and tunnel construction, would not the railroads be further disabled from improving their service?

"What Massachusetts needs is a railroad system operated in the interests of Massachusetts, and not in the interests of New York; a railroad system operated efficiently for the purpose of advancing the welfare of Massachusetts; a railroad system controlled by Massachusetts men for the benefit of Massachusetts and northern New England."

Edmund D. Codman, a Boston lawyer, declared he hoped no bill would pass the legislature increasing New Haven control until we have Boston management instead of New York management.

"And then," said the speaker, "the Grand Trunk will get what it is entitled to. It is worth while to estimate how the Grand Trunk would stand if during the last twelve years the Boston and Maine had been an independent property and had been operated in its own interest.

"It could have had trackage rights in Boston for its express trains and nothing but mutual profit for a result. It could have had its own export terminal with trackage rights for its export trains and nothing but mutual profit for a result. It could have had entry into every Boston and Maine town on equal terms with any other trunk line—and better terms if in exchange they would furnish increased foreign traffic. All this was with nothing but mutual profit for a result.

"For twelve years the Grand Trunk has had none of these things, and now it must build its own line because it will not trust the New York management for any traffic exchange."

CAR DERAILED, 1,000 FORCED TO WALK

Fully 1,000 passengers were forced to walk one-third of a mile and traffic was held up 40 minutes early today when an inward-bound Dudley street elevated electric car jumped the tracks at the junction of Ring Hill avenue and Charlotte street, Dorchester. The car was filled with passengers. No one was injured, although the car went ten yards after jumping the tracks.

R. & G. Corsets

R. & G. Corsets combine in a notable degree desirable corset qualities which eliminate many of the ordinary corset discomforts.

¶ Exquisitely tasteful trimming gives them an attractive appearance which will appeal to every woman's natural preference for dainty effects.

¶ Carefully selected materials insure a service that is sure to be satisfactory, notwithstanding the moderate prices.

¶ And now, when fashion demands close-fitting garments with straight lines, R. & G. Corsets have sprung from an advantage to well-nigh a necessity.

¶ They are so designed as not to alter, but take advantage of the figure's natural lines and mould these according to fashion's dictates in dress.

FORESTERS SAIL DOWN HARBOR

The 800 delegates attending the convention of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters were treated to a sail down the harbor and a visit to the forts today. Tonight there will be a class initiation of 800 in Faneuil Hall, conducted by the seventy-seven courts of Boston.

The election of officers resulted as follows: James Dignam of New Bedford, H. C. R.; Edward N. Clancy of Watertown, H. Y. C. R.; Daniel H. Maguire of Haverhill, H. S. T.; Cornelius F. Buckley of Dorchester, H. S. C.; Timothy J. Collins of Springfield, H. J. C.; Joseph T. Brennan of Roxbury, H. L. C.; George T. Daly of Boston, H. O. S.; Dr. Francis J. Hanley of Whitman, H. M. E.; Rev. James H. O'Neil of East Boston, chaplain general; Joseph A. Sheehan of Boston, corporation counsel; Joseph J. Forrester, Miles Anale F. Sullivan of Boston and Timothy E. Kelley, finance committee; George With, trustee.

BEAUTY SECRETS FOR WOMEN

WHEN OVERWEIGHT—A simple home remedy for absorbing fatty tissue can be prepared at small cost by dissolving 4 ounces fat-reducing tablets in ½ pint water. A tablespoonful of this should be taken before each meal until the weight is satisfactory. No fear need be entertained about the fat returning when the treatment is discontinued, and, although many pounds may be taken off, the skin will be left smooth and firm.

A YOUTH-GLOW TO THE SKIN—Dissolve 1 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water), then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, and you will have the most delightful lotion you ever used. This is used instead of powder, and not only gives an exquisite health-tone to the skin, but frees it of that sallow, "muddy" or oily condition. Even in hottest weather but one application of the spurmax lotion is required, as wind and perspiration have no effect upon it whatever. This lotion is invisible when on, and to powder-roughed skins lends a charming softness and smoothness.

SHAMPOOING MADE EASY—Home shampooing will be a pleasant incident of the toilet if you use plain cantharox, a teaspoonful of which dissolved in a cup hot water is ample mixture for a thorough cleansing of both hair and scalp. It requires but a few minutes' time shampooing with this simple mixture, and after rinsing the hair dries quickly and evenly, with a delightful sheen and silky softness.

FOR THIN, STRAGGLY EYEBROWS—Daily applications of plain pyroxin to eyebrows with forefinger will make them come in thick and glossy. Stubby eyelashes grow long and curly if pyroxin be applied at roots with thumb and forefinger. Use caution not to get any where no hair is wanted.

Poison Picked Up in Street Kills Baby

Little Roland Keith of Somerville Ate "Candy" Despite Sister's Precaution.

After five days and nights of pain three-year-old Roland Howard Keith of West Somerville died today from eating corrosive sublimate tablets, picked up in the street, which he thought were candy.

His eight-year-old sister, Mildred, tried to prevent him at the time from handling the "candy," but Roland had eluded her vigilance.

Roland was the youngest child of Mr and Mrs. Harry M. Keith of No. 79 Curtis street, West Somerville. The father is a clerk in the custom house.

Saturday morning Mildred and Roland, with five-year-old Martha Dubin of Teele avenue, were coming through Curtis street.

Roland found a corroded food bottle on the stone wall fronting the estate of the late Lorenzo Ware Dow.

"See," he said, holding the bottle up to Mildred, "candy!"

There were white tablets in the bottle. Mildred threw the bottle into the street.

The bottle broke. The "candy" rolled out. Roland managed, without the girl knowing it, to put some of the white tablets in his mouth.

Doctors tried for five days to save Roland, but the boy died before dawn today.

The police are investigating in place of coroner, the physician performing the autopsy and the person whom a child could speak to at once.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

THE SENATORSHIP AND HIGH COST LIVING

MR. VOTER:

I have never held public office; never wanted to; never intended to, mainly because my mind runs away from buncombe and toward results, and in trying for the latter I have had no time to spare for the former.

I have publicly said I never would accept public office.

I meant it.

I can imagine no more unwelcome change to my laid-out life plans than to put aside, even temporarily, my private work to join the band of statesmen juggling who hive beneath the limelight of political life, but—

Times and events have shaped for the undoing of personal desires and comforts.

I had agreed to advertise and stump our State in the event of Roosevelt's nomination.

He is to be nominated.

Either Theodore Roosevelt or the Democratic nominee (in my opinion Bryan) will be elected our next President.

Whoever is elected will be pledged on the one great question of the age—HIGH COST LIVING—HOW TO SMASH IT.

This means that the next President will be busy—very busy; that he must have 24-hours-a-day working lieutenants in the House and Senate, particularly in the Senate; men who, to the exclusion of all else, will preach the reason for High Cost Living and fight for a Law to Smash it.

This means that any citizen, who is qualified for the job, must at any personal sacrifice, offer his services.

Right at this point comes the unexpected.

Senator Crane will not stand for another term.

Senator Crane's successor will be the citizen, public or private, whom the people designate at the primaries.

I have today been urged by public leaders, whom I believe have the best interests of all the people at heart, to stand for election as the nominee of my party, that by so doing this Senatorship campaign will aid the election of a President who will smash High Cost Living.

After fully weighing the arguments, my sense of public duty leads me to consent to make this appeal to the voters of the Commonwealth.

Give me the following pledge and I will go before the State for the Republican nomination for United States Senator:

> I, the undersigned, a voter in the town or city of....., Mass., hereby pledge myself to vote for Thomas W. Lawson if he is a candidate for the United States Senate at the coming primary election.
>
> Date....., 1912.
>
> .....
> (Name of Voter.)

These are my ideas:

1. The first, and, until settled, only question of vital importance to the American people is HIGH COST LIVING. WHAT HAS CAUSED IT—WHAT CAN CURE IT?

2. With Roosevelt or Bryan in the White House—sent there with the unqualified pledge to SMASH HIGH COST LIVING—either one will have aggressive, fighting lieutenants in the House. The high devils of finance, the System, the originators of High Cost Living, its perpetuators and beneficiaries, will make their stand for the final defeat of the people's relief in the Senate.

3. It is of vital importance to the successful smashing of High Cost Living that there be in the United States Senate after the 4th of March, and until High Cost Living has been completely smashed, a lieutenant of the people, who can be recklessly fearless; one who can and will under all conditions hurl the bomb of logic and stand firm while it explodes, and who will continue to hurl the bombs until the pilingers and oppressors of the people—the System—are awakened to the fact that the American people are this time out for victory, complete victory, and that they are going to have it.

4. My lack of political training will be argued against my candidacy; but you, Mr. Voter, will readily see the buncombe of such argument. There are many members of the present United States Senate to whom some of my own business lieutenants could give cards, spades, the deal and the deck and then lick them to one of Colonel Roosevelt's frazzles on any subject of real importance to the American people.

5. I consider myself qualified for the job under discussion, because:

I am and always have been a Republican.

Owing to a combination of conditions, too well understood by the public to make enumeration necessary, I can poll more Democratic votes than any other Republican in the State at the election.

I can write my own arguments on High Cost Living—How to Smash It; I can disseminate my arguments through the press and from the stump throughout the State at my own expense; I can go through the primary and election campaigns unassisted by anyone and not hitched to any politician, demagogue or blithering ass, and, if I am successful, the big work which I have laid out for myself after March 4th will have no strings to it.

The Democrats of the State will have for their candidate (in all probability) one of those two strong fighters, Mayor Fitzgerald or Governor Foss.

While I have only to point to my assistance to both in their past campaigns as substantial evidence that I doff my bonnet to them for all-around ability, I have but little doubt I can beat out either or both combined in the number of votes cast at the primaries or at the election itself.

The fact that a large part of the over 55,000 voters who are already pledged to me to vote for the man I say will beat smash High Cost Living are Democrats, assures me that I can depend upon a large proportion of the Democratic vote of the State on election day, even while running as a Republican.

NOW, MR. VOTER, LET US UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER: I want this job—for indeed it will be a job, only that I may assist in smashing High Cost Living. If you have any doubt that I will be able to do this, count me out.

If you give me this job I will go into the Senate pledged to do one thing—ASSIST IN SMASHING HIGH COST LIVING. And in accepting your vote I pledge myself that I know what has caused High Cost Living, and that I know how High Cost Living can be smashed.

Now, Mr. Voter, mull over the above. Then discuss it calmly at length and without bias with your mother, wife, daughter and sister; for, after all, they are the ones most vitally interested. Explain to them A-B-C-edly what a United States Senator is; how in one sense he does not amount to a row of punkhe-tted beans; and how in another sense he may be the key to the SMASHING OF HIGH COST LIVING. Explain to them there have been scores of United States Senators whose careers have shown that they didn't have honesty, push, fight or ability enough to earn their salt behind a plow or a counter or at anything short of smoking glasses for eclipses or picking blooms from century plants. Explain to them that the job during the past quarter of a century has been looked upon as a loafing sinecure for mushroomed millionaire robbers of the people, and how that many of them have bought a United States Senatorship for hastily got cash from political bosses for the sole purpose of using its title to get them into that society or standing from which their past wise dirty past and coarse present barred them.

Above all, be sure and explain that any American citizen, yourself for that matter, is entitled to ask for the suffrages of his fellow citizens; that while it has been generally supposed until now when the people have been awakened to their peril that a seat in the United States Senate could only be secured by belly-crawling or dollar-passing from political bosses, it is in fact now open to all citizens of the State.

And after you have carefully explained all this, ask their opinion as to whether you will sign and send me the above pledge.

Be sure and explain to your women folk that whether or not I will run for this job depends upon whether you and 20,000 other Republicans and 10,000 Democrats sign and send the above pledge to me; and that if you do, then they will have an opportunity to read each day in the press of the State up to election day the reasons for High Cost Living and the Way to Smash It; and that they will have an opportunity to hear me explain these reasons from the platform of your town or city hall or church, between now and election day; and that in none of my advertisements or my talks will I descend to the personal abuse methods which have been so much in vogue in the recent campaign.

MR. VOTER, IT'S NOW UP TO YOU

THOMAS W. LAWSON

25 CENT JUMP IN HARD COAL PRICE

The wage increase granted to the miner workers, who have just resumed work after forty-four days of idleness, will cause the price of hard coal to go up twenty-five cents a ton. At a recent meeting, the mine owners announced that the cost of production has been materially increased. During the forty-four days machinery was installed and changes in the companies have increased their expenses.

BROKER'S SENTENCE FOR PLOT STANDS

In a decision today by One full bench of the Supreme Court, the appeal of Alan H. Mackenzie, a State street curb broker, from a conviction of conspiracy to steal $5,000 from Wesley A. Greer, was overruled. A stay of sentence was granted Mackenzie on January 23 by the trial justice in the Superior Court, until the Supreme Court could pass on the appeal. Mackenzie was charged with selling to Greer a worthless certificate of stock for payment of a shortage in dividends of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

YOUR CRAZIEST THOUGHTS WIN

But one more week remains for you to think up your "Crazy Thoughts."

In next Sunday's AMERICAN will be printed the list of prize winners for the past week. The final list of winners will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN June 2. This will contain the winning thoughts selected from those received to Wednesday night, June 29.

So today begins the last week—and hence the last chance to be in line for one of the prizes in the AMERICAN'S Crazy Thought contest. Therefore, think out your "Crazy Thoughts" and send them in before it is too late.

If you haven't won one of those $50 prizes, now's the time to get busy thinking your thoughts out. It looks easy, but it isn't a cinch by any means to think the craziest thought. Try it. Do it now. Everybody else is doing it. It's lots of fun and, besides, there are the prizes.

All you have to do is to think of something good which "May be all right," but which you are "Glad it isn't customary." Then write it out in the proper form on a post card and address it to the Crazy Thought Editor, No. 3 Winthrop square, Boston.

Use this form in writing out your thoughts:

It may be all right
.....
BUT
I'm glad it isn't customary
.....

Here are some of the crazy thoughts that came in today's mail:

It may be all right
To play poker,
BUT
I'm glad it isn't customary
To be caught bluffing all the time.
It may be all right
To accompany your beau to a dance,
BUT
I'm glad it isn't customary
To choose a fellow for your husband on his dancing only.
MISS ROSE RAFFRAN,
No. 20 Hansborough street, Dorchester.

It may be all right
To eat soap,
BUT
I'm glad it isn't customary
To spit bubbles.
ALBERT CLARK,
No. 74 Washington street, Malden.

It may be all right
To put a "lisn" on the game,
BUT
I'm glad it isn't customary
For the fans to do the same.
JOSEPH McMANUS,
Carrier 671, Back Bay P. O.

The crazier your thoughts are the better. Remember that, so let them come. Remembering the first prize of $50 for the best Crazy Thought. For the next fifty best thoughts, there will be fifty prizes of $1 each and, in addition, there will be 150 other prizes.

Pure Food Baby Has Leap Year Proposal

WASHINGTON, May 23.—John Harvey Wiley, pure food baby, seven days old today, has had a leap year proposal. It came from Mabel, the baby daughter of R. M. Allen, the pure food commissioner of Kentucky, and Mrs. Allen. Dr. Harvey Wiley accepted on behalf of his son.

"If it is conditional," he wrote, "on the ratification by the respective parties later, I approve of the idea to have the fight for pure food kept in the family."

LIGHTNING PLAYS PRANK ON A GIRL

DETROIT, May 23.—In an electrical storm at Owosso, a bolt knocked a chair from under Miss Mazel Vankirk, sixteen years old, and sat her down on the floor, unharmed. The chair was hoisted to a sofa several feet distant.

BEGIN FIGHT TO SAVE SPENCER FROM THE CHAIR

A fight to save the life of Bertram G. Spencer, murderer of Martha B. Blackstone, of Springfield, began today in the Supreme Court when Attorney Robert P. Stapleton, counsel for Spencer, argued the bill of exceptions taken at the trial in Springfield. Lawyer Stapleton appeared before the full bench today. He based his plea for a new trial on his exceptions.

The lawyer argued that Spencer was insane and that the jury which convicted him disregarded the testimony of competent alienists. It was expected the hearing would take up two days.

Woman Investigator Charges $5 an Hour

BROCKTON, May 23.—Five dollars an hour is the price put upon her own services as an "investigator" by Mrs. Rosie Holmes of No. 37 West Elm street. She is suing Mrs. Alice K. Perkins, daughter of Preston B. Keith, for $5,000. The suit was brought to force payment of $500, alleged to be due for services in securing information about Miss Estelle Corbett. Miss Corbett in September, 1908, sued Mrs. Perkins' husband, Dr. C. Ernest Perkins, a prominent clubman, for $25,000, for alleged assault.

The case was resumed today. Mrs. Holmes said she secured information about Miss Corbett, visiting south Boston, Attleboro, Lynn and Pawtucket. Mrs. Perkins, she testified, suggested to her that she secure a divorce from her husband, and she added that Mrs. Perkins offered to pay the expenses of the suit.

Dr. and Mrs. Perkins also testified. Dr. Perkins said that when Mrs. Holmes came to his office to consult him in regard to the case he had John Boyd Dibdin in the room to listen to the conversation.

"Wife Not Chattel of Man She Marries"

In an address before the Women's Club of the Robert Gould Shaw House, Charles Fletcher Gould his nephews that the modern, democratic idea of marriage makes the wife a partner with her husband on equal terms.

"No longer," he said, "is she the chattel of the man who chooses to take her to be his wife."

The rabbi instanced the will of the late John Jacob Astor, in which he binds his wife to a certain line of conduct, as an example of the antiquated notion of the rights of husbands.

In the discussion that followed, it was brought out that the speaker holds the same attitude in regard to children; that is, he expressed it as his opinion that a child's to be looked upon more as a part of a co-operative democratic home, rather than as property to be used by the parents in any way they see fit.

'BURY ME WITH POOR,' STRINDBERG'S WISH

STOCKHOLM, May 23.—The will of Auguste Strindberg, the Swedish author and novelist, who died the other day, declared among other things:

I wish to be taken straight to the churchyard and buried not in the section allotted to the wealthy, but among the poor. There must be no music or songs. No panegyric is to be spoken, only the prayers of the clergyman.

GLOVES—PLEASE READ THIS

Appreciation is pleasant.

Accept our thanks for the way you respond to our Glove-selling efforts.

There is no secret about the following:

We cherish a frank and open wish to attain leadership in Gloves. Our ambition is to sell more Gloves than any other store in Boston. We will.

Our plans were laid months ago. They have been operating quietly—but successfully. Everybody claimed to offer the best Glove values.

There was but one intelligent thing for us to do.

We proceeded to really give the best Glove values. Provided them without making a noise. You sensed them with the unerring instinct of thrift.

That has been our policy. It will continue.

Witness:

There are three items at 50c. Study them. Now, here's one item at 79c Sixteen-button White Silk Mousquetaire, with double finger tips. Think of it. SIXTEEN-BUTTON—at 79c Double finger tips. Firm fabric. WARRANTED

$2.75 WHITE KID GLOVES $1.59

These are the Best Glove values ever offered by us. Only fifteen dozen pairs. Wish we could have gotten a hundred dozen.

Real French kid, soft, elastic, full of life, Mousquetaire style, three clasps at wrist, over seam sewn. Value $2.75; special at $1.59

We believe you will say that they are far and away the greatest Glove value you've ever seen.

Accuse Pittsburg Public Officials

Demand Impeachment of Three Men in Crusade Launched Against Vice.

PITTSBURG, May 23.—The greatest publicity campaign ever started in Pittsburg, launched without the aid of a single daily newspaper, is in full swing today.

The Voters' Civic League got into communication with 300 ministers and with all the civic and religious bodies in the city. The leaders of the Men and Religion Movement, too, were enlisted in the battle to acquaint Pittsburg with the condition of vice existing and to demand the impeachment and removal from office of Public Safety Director John M. Morin, Public Works Director Joseph G. Armstrong and Director of Health E. R. Walters.

Princess Contest List Sunday

Get the Five-Vote Coupons

MISS ETHEL REED, ENTERED IN PRINCESS CONTEST.

Miss Reed of Faneuil is proving an active vote getter in the AMERICAN'S Contest.

Three Hundred Prizes, With Real Princess Outfit, for Most Beautiful Contestant.

The full list of names in the AMERICAN'S fascinating Princess Contest will be published in the next Sunday AMERICAN, May 26. A page of candidates' pictures will also be published.

The Sunday AMERICAN will also be particularly important to competitors and their friends in this contest because a five-vote coupon is printed on Sunday. And five-vote coupons help build up a candidate's total tremendously.

Among the highly popular entries is that of Miss Ethel Reed of No. 42 Newton street, Faneuil. This candidate, from the town of historic name, is drawing votes from a wide circle of energetic friends.

The Princess contest is so simple in its plan and so wonderfully attractive in its results that all New England, masculine as well as feminine, is keenly interested in it.

The real Princess, the girl who is esteemed the most beautiful of all, is to receive a prize as delightful as it is unusual. She is to be given a Princess outfit. Then there will be 299 other prizes, including trips to Bermuda, trips to Baltimore, trips to Portland and other vacation awards.

300 Prizes Waiting.

So three hundred of New England's fairest daughters are to be more than pleased within a few weeks, when the magnificent prizes are awarded.

Votes will tell the story—and only votes. The plan is simple—there is nothing to do except to express your opinion as to who are New England's prettiest girls. The way to express your opinion is through the ballot or vote coupon, which appears every day in the AMERICAN.

Glance over the prize list. Determine for yourself whether or not it is not fully worth while to enter or to have some friend enter this contest. If you do not know of anyone in the contest, think of your best friend. Who, in your opinion, is the prettiest girl in New England—the real Princess.

Send along her picture. If you have no picture of her, send her name and address. The AMERICAN will send her an order on Otto Sarony Company, No. 146 Tremont street, Boston, where she may call and have her picture taken at the AMERICAN'S expense.

The contest has only just begun. Now is the time to enter. No vote standings have been published yet. Candidates have just begun to get real active, so new candidates have plenty of chance.

Remember that there are 297 other prizes besides the first prize of the Princess outfit. The prizes are as follows:

FIRST PRIZE.
The outfit of a Princess (of winner's selection).

2d AND 3rd PRIZES.
Fine vacation trips to Bermuda (each winner may take a friend).

4th to 6th PRIZES.
Boat trips to Baltimore (meals and stateroom included).

7th to 12th PRIZES.
Boat trips to New York (meals and stateroom included).

13th to 21st PRIZES.
Boat trips to Portland (including meals and stateroom); each winner may take a friend).

22nd to 39th PRIZES.
Fine Cameras.

40th to 50th PRIZES.
Umbrellas.

51st to 300th PRIZES.
Sets of interesting fiction—ten bound volumes in each set.

Mayor Was Too Soon With His Flag Day

After Executive Phone Jingles and Jingles, Old Glory Comes Down Till June 14.

Boston is pretty well posted about the American flag and when the Stars and Stripes were seen floating in the nice, chilly Spring atmosphere from almost all the public buildings today, Boston began to rub her forehead and think.

Then Boston got the Mayor's office on the phone. The conversation was something like this:

"Say, Mr. Mayor, will you please tell us why the flags are flying from the public buildings?"

"Certainly, this is Flag Day."

"Flag Day? Aren't you mistaken?"

"No, this is Flag Day, and Boston is never behind in looking after the glorious flag."

The telephone continued to jingle. Finally the Mayor got tired explaining that this was Flag Day and he called Secretary Leary and said:

"Say, Leary, I think we've got mixed in our dates. Everybody is calling up and saying this isn't Flag Day. Let's look it up."

They dug up an almanac and found Flag Day. It was opposite the date June 14.

"That's one on us," said the Mayor. "Better pull down the flags."

And that's the reason the flags flew early today and were not to be seen late afternoon.

O'MEARA SAYS THE POLICE ARE NOT CLOCKWINDERS

Boston policemen are not clockwinders, according to announcement of Police Commissioner O'Meara today. Therefore the city firemen will continue to wind the public clocks. In the old days of fire bells the firemen wound the public clocks. This custom has survived the bells. Fire Commissioner Cole represented to Commissioner O'Meara that the patrolmen, on their rounds, could wind the clocks to more advantage.

But Commissioner O'Meara holds that police are not to have clockwinding added to their present duties of preserving law and order, acting as target for thugs, thrashing bewildered strangers, capturing irresponsible horses, snubbing the office vessent small boy and otherwise earning their daily wage.

KAISER NARROWLY ESCAPES INJURY AT LINER'S CHRISTENING

HAMBURG, May 23.—Emperor William had a narrow escape from death or serious injury today during the christening of the new Hamburg American liner Imperator. As the Emperor and a party of distinguished guests were leaving the dock in a motor launch, a block of wood fell from the roof of the pier building, missing the Kaiser's head by only a few inches.

The Imperator is the largest German ship, and is surpassed in size only by the Cunard line Aquitania, which is now under course of construction. The Imperator is 900 feet long and will be of 50,000 tons register.

ORDER OUT 100,000 AT BRITISH PORTS

LONDON, May 23.—A strike of all the transport workers in England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland was called today by the national executive committee of the Transport Workers Federation. All the men are ordered to quit work tonight and labor leaders declare more than 100,000 will be affected. Leaders of the union threaten to tie up every port in the United Kingdom. They served notices on the big fleet of the companies involved, declaring the men would hold out for concessions in both pay and hours. The dock workers are dissatisfied with their working conditions and they probably will go out in sympathy.

Guaranteed

Genuine "Porosknit," the cool, elastic, form-fitting summer underwear is unconditionally guaranteed.

Beware of imitations. There are many. Only the genuine has the actual label shown below. Guarantee Bond with every garment. In all styles—Union Suits particularly comfortable—no bulging flaps—buttons and unbutton easily—stay buttoned while on.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

In a way, New York will have only one automobile show next Winter. But, inasmuch as it is to be held in two divisions, one in Madison Square Garden and the others in the Grand Central Palace, it will mean something close to two shows for those who attend both divisions. Each will be under the control of the Automobile Board of Trade and not of the N. A. A. M., as some folks thought would be the case after last season's show in the Palace.

It is understood that one ticket will admit to both buildings and that arrangements will be made to enlist those eager to make demonstrations. The show committee, which will have the double event in charge, is the same as in several preceding years. Colonel George Pope, chairman; Charles Clifford Pratt, Alfred Reeves and Merle L. Downs.

The members of the Cornell crew were the guests of Fred Bradford, of the Velie Boston Branch, who took the oarsmen on a trip through the suburbs of Boston, in a couple of the latest Velie models. They were delighted with the sight-seeing trip and said many kind things about the Velie car.

The Pine Grove Hotel, Spofford Lake, N. H., has been decided upon for the annual outing of the members of the Bay State Automobile Association, on June 17th. The members will leave Boston on the afternoon of the 15th and cover the festivities at 6.00 p. m. with a banquet at the Pine Grove Hotel and from that time until just after lunch on Monday they will make merry, when they will drive back over the road to Boston.

One of the most recent converts to the use of the commercial motor car is the Great Western Power Company. This big firm has in the past week taken delivery of seven Autocar trucks from Walter C. Morris, local distributor of the Autocar. The trucks are to be of the one-and-one-half ton type, and are to be used as service wagons in the construction work of the corporation. They have been equipped with bodies specially designed and built by the Great Western Power Company of San Francisco, for this particular service. Separate compartments and racks are provided for the tools and supplies that will be hauled. The seven Autocars will be used in San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, and other points at which the Great Western Power Company is doing work.

"This is but an example of the general rush to the motor driven vehicle," said Mr. Morris. "Besides these deliveries to the power company, we have also delivered in the last few days several more Autocar trucks to the telephone company.

"TIZ Reminds Me of My Barefoot Days!"

"My Feet Never Get Sore, Tired or Chafed Now, and I Have No More Corns or Bunions, Because I Use TIZ."

Send for FREE Trial Package of TIZ Today.

"TIZ makes me feel like a boy again. Nothing would hurt my feet in those days, even when I'd run around barefooted with a few rocks and pebbles and sticks.

"To be able now to have that sweet ache, never get tired, blistered, swollen or chafed, or have corns, callouses or bunions, is a glorious recompense for all the foot misery I have had to endure in the winter of life. TIZ makes the feet feel young, and young feet make you feel young all over.

"I've tried many things for my poor old tired feet, for those bunions of 20 years, and for those corns that have added wrinkles to my face. I've tried plasters, powders and salves and nothing has ever given the relief that TIZ has. My feet are now strong and vigorous, they never get tired or swollen. I have no corns, callouses or bunions any more. They are a boy's feet on an old man's."

TIZ gives instant relief and cures all foot troubles. It operates on a new principle, draws out all the poisonous exudations that cause foot miseries.

Don't accept a substitute. An elderly man, especially, has a mind of his own; see that you get TIZ.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, and recommended by all drug stores, department and general stores. Write today to Walter Luther Dodge & Co., 1223 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., for a free trial package of TIZ by return mail, and enjoy the real foot relief you never felt before.

MRS. GARLAND'S STORY OF ROMANCE

built man with sandy hair and mustache, wearing a dark brown outing suit, jumped out.

"Here's Mr. Green now," she exclaimed. She went forward to greet him. I insisted upon looking at the surrounding trees, the hills and winding pathways and finally drowned my gaze in the depths of the bay. I honestly didn't look once and when they both returned I was lost in contemplation of the beauties of the country surrounding Buzzard's Bay.

After a while I ventured again on the topic which so worried me.

"Some people think it very remarkable that you should give up that amount of money in order to marry again," I insisted.

"How do they know but that the man she's marrying has more than enough to make up for it?" Mr. Green questioned laughingly and then blushed crimson, as any big schoolboy might.

With that we all laughed and even though it may have been my cue to insist upon knowing whether or not that might be true, the question refused to come forth and stuck obstinately in my throat during the rest of the conversation.

Friends Since Childhood.

"Mr. Green is my attorney and will tell you everything there is to tell. I know you will excuse me as the car is waiting and I have an important engagement," she informed me. She was tenderly tucked into the auto and, waving us a farewell, sped away.

"Well" the handsome prospective groom questioned me smilingly and bracing himself for what he knew was to be a volley of questions.

"Mr. Green, would you mind telling me something of the romance?"

"Why, there really isn't much of that to tell either," he replied. "I have known Mrs. Garland ever since we were youngsters. We've always been the best of friends and I've always admired her immensely. We grew up here and then you know all about that. When her husband died I was her attorney and became manager of her estate and Saturday I'm to marry her."

"Will she continue to live here?"

"Yes for the Summer, at any rate.

"How many hearts and fortunes get charities here, will she give those up?"

"No, indeed, though now I don't think you can call them charities. They are all self supporting."

"And it is true that she will forfeit that immense amount of money when she marries you?"

"That's what the will says," he replied rather crestfallen and again he smiled.

"But isn't a widow entitled to a third anyway?"

"That's more a matter of litigation, I believe. She's certainly a clever, queer little woman and it's wonderful the way she has brought up those children."

"How many are there, three?" I questioned.

"No, there are five," he grinned back. "Why, did you not like those pics?" he then asked the feminine who was passing and who had been talking to the man who drove me up here.

"Imagine mentioning sins and brides in the same breath," she said.

"Tell him he's getting a set of money for drifting this young lady up here and he must buy some pics," he persisted.

"Tell him I shan't ride here with him if he doesn't." I volunteered, and the pig question settled, we continued to talk of the bride.

"Oh, by the way," do you know what sort of a gown Mrs. Garland is to wear. I forgot to ask her, white and lace, I said.

"No, not white satin, way up here in the country. You know it's to be the simplest kind of a ceremony. Only her sisters and brothers are to be here aside from the children and the minister. We're going away almost immediately after the ceremony, so I presume she'll wear a traveling gown. James A. Garland, Mrs. Garland's eldest son, will be what might possibly be called best man. Mrs. Garland will have no attendants and the whole affair is to be most quiet and most simple."

"How about the money the sons are to receive?" I inquired.

"That will remain just as stated in the will," Mr. Green replied.

"It's certainly a high price Mrs. Garland is paying for love, but she's doing that with half the same spirit that has characterized her all through her rather stormy life. She has been a widow for about five years and before her marriage was Miss Marie Louise Tudor, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Tudor. On September 20th, 1905, she became the bride of Mr. Garland in St. Paul's Church, Brookline, and the wedding was one of the most fashionable of that time. She later divorced Mr. Garland and then remarried him.

Mrs. Garland is the sister of Frederic Tudor of Needham, Mrs. Frederick N. Converse of the Crossways, Norwood, who was formerly Emma Tudor; Mrs. Edward W. Slade, who was Euphemia Tudor, and Mrs. W. Scott Burgess, the first wife of Alexander H. Higginson, and who before her marriage was Rosamond Tudor.

CORNELL DEGREES FOR 3 BLIND MEN

NEW YORK, May 23.—Three young men who are blind will be graduated from Columbia University on June 5, and will begin to look for jobs, a task, one of them said yesterday, which is easy enough for a man with his sight, but which is practically impossible for one handicapped by lack of it. The three students are Benjamin Bernstein of No. 54 West One-Hundredth and Eighteenth street, who will be graduated from the law school; W. F. Baker of No. 172 West One-Hundredth and Seventh street, and Calvin S. Grover of No. 3 Adrian avenue, both of whom will receive baccalaureate degrees.

TAKE RICHESON HOME FOR BURIAL

When the train carrying the body of Clarence V. T. Richeson pulled out of the South Station, and the body began its trip to Virginia, where it will be buried, the drama of Richeson's life ended, and the last chapter of the Hildreth murder story was written.

It was only by the most desperate pleading of Louise Richeson, the murderer's sister, and by the appeals of Dr. Johnson and Attorney William A. Morse, that Douglas Richeson was persuaded to take the body of his brother home. A letter from the father had left the disposal of the body entirely to Douglas, and he at once decided to have it buried here, but was dissuaded by those who wished to accede to the last request of the condemned man.

On the Federal express the remains were shipped to the South. Douglas Richeson accompanied the body. Miss Richeson left Boston earlier for Philadelphia, where she will meet her sister, Catharine Mixter. They will board the train on which the body is being conveyed and will continue the trip with the mother and dying brother to the old homestead in Virginia.

After the funeral services at the Warren Avenue Church the body was taken to a Boston undertaking establishment and embalmed. It was in charge of Undertaker Waldo Stokes of Roxbury. In a plain casket it was shipped to the South station. The tag on the shipping box showed that it was consigned to Thomas Y. Richeson, the father. Douglas Richeson accompanied it to the baggage car and remained there until after the train had started.

The body will be buried in Amherst, Virginia, where Richeson had spent his boyhood days, and from which he went forth in the strength of youth to fight the battle of life—and fail.

Douglas Richeson said before he left Boston:

"I am taking Clarence's body back home as any other brother would do. There is nothing more to say, except that he never should have left Virginia. The homecoming will be a great blow to my father. My two sisters are to board the train at Philadelphia. We will all try and help our father bear this affliction."

FIGHT TO SAVE MRS. CUSUMANO

prison has engaged women attendants who will be constantly with Mrs. Cusumano, during her stay in the death house.

The Rev. Ida C. Hultin of Sudbury, one of the leading delegates to the Unitarian convention in Boston this week, declares "it is a downright shame for a jury of men to send Mrs. Cusumano to the electric chair."

"How would a man like to be sent to the electric chair by a jury of women?" she asks; "would they not rebel?"

The feminine pastor of Sudbury, who is one of the best known ministers in the Unitarian denomination, is a strong opponent of capital punishment in the first place and is particularly opposed to the execution of Mrs. Lena Cusumano in the first.

Unitarian women are joined in a movement which is to be carried throughout the country to achieve, if possible, the abolition of capital punishment and to see that women shall not be condemned to death by juries of men.

The Rev. Ida C. Hultin says:

"The state has no right to send Mrs. Lena Cusumano to the electric chair or any other woman. No jury composed entirely of men has this prerogative. As long as women do not make the laws, men have no right to condemn women by them.

"I do not believe in capital punishment, and I think the time is coming when it will be abolished. I do not believe in taking the life of any one, whether it is a man or woman. But I am especially interested in the case of Mrs. Cusumano because it awakens certain questions.

"Can you really tell me what right have men to take her life?

"Does not this prove the need of women having something to do with the making of laws? Why should one sex make laws for another? Suppose the tables were turned for the moment and that women were authorized to make laws for men and that the men had nothing to do with them. How would the men feel should this be? Now, we women feel the same way that it is not right for men to legislate that a woman should be put to death.

TAFT IN LAST STAND FIGHTS FOR THE NEW JERSEY DELEGATION

President Deeply Disappointed by the Result in Ohio.

Roosevelt and Taft, running hip and tuck in pledged delegates to the Chicago convention, today transferred their belligerent activities to New Jersey, whose primaries are held next Tuesday

Ohio greatly disappointed President Taft. Complete returns from his home State show thirty-eight delegates for Roosevelt and but ten for the President

The poll of instructed Republican delegates throughout the country now stands as follows

For Taft, 451.
For Roosevelt, 425
For La Follette, 30.
For Cannidin, 19

It will require 540 votes to nominate a candidate at Chicago

President Taft is plainly disappointed with the results in his home State of Ohio and worried over the general situation He declared today, however, that he would remain in the fight to the finish and is getting ready for a campaign in New Jersey.

Colonel Roosevelt, on the other hand, is jubilant and confident. Under the Colonel's direct supervision a contest will be waged in the national committee against the seating of almost 100 delegates, claimed for Taft but whom the Roosevelt leaders declare were illegally chosen.

Crane's Defeat Seen.

This warfare in the Republican National Committee may mean the defeat for re-election to the committee of some of its most prominent members, including United States Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts

Although President Taft has been beaten by Roosevelt in the primaries in nearly all the pivotal States, the machine still controls the National Republican Committee.

The National Committee passes upon the credentials of all contesting delegates. Roosevelt has such contesting delegates in twelve Southern States.

Colonel Roosevelt now proposes to win possession of the machine which now supports Taft. This is no less a scheme than to work the "recall" on Taft committee men now serving in Roosevelt-pledged States before the committee meeting and to elect in their stead men who will favor Roosevelt

No law save that of the party governs the election of committeemen, the time of their election, or the length of the terms. And, if the State delegation from Massachusetts, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio, for example, see fit to recall Crane, Low, Penrose and Vorys, all bitterly opposed to Roosevelt, there is nothing, apparently, to prevent them from doing so.

Conservative Ticket Hinted.

This was but one of the developments that followed the Ohio catastrophe in kaleidoscopic succession. Another was the definite declaration on the part of Senators Root and Penrose to put a conservative Republican ticket in the field in the event of Roosevelt's nomination—a contingency that these plans admit is by no means improbable.

Root told Penrose in a two-hour conference that a break in the New York delegation is certain, and something must be done quickly. As none of the leaders dare put Taft out of the running now, some reactionary ticket, which will not be heard, was determined upon.

While this conference was in progress, Senator La Follette's followers in Washington received word that the Wisconsin Progressive intends to [illegible] his own, get into the game and do all he can to beat Roosevelt, provided the Colonel runs away with the nomination.

Senator W. Murray Crane's determination to seek no further Senatorial honors has not only stirred Massachusetts from Lake to Berkshires, but has upset as well about every political plan being hatched in both parties.

Lawson for Crane's Seat.

The list of ones willing to succeed Crane as a Republican now numbers ten. Thomas W Lawson is the last to enter the lists, and believes that the call to the people should be the high cost of living Ex-Speaker Walker may be an avowed candidate before the week is out and so may be Lieutenant-Governor Robert Luce With three Congressmen, and all of them acknowledged stand-patters, anxious for the vote of Senator Crane, the Roosevelt progressives promise to have three of their number in the field also It will be a lively contest in the Grand Old Party, regardless of whether enough States ratify the constitutional amendment for popular election of United States Senators or not. Senator Crane's withdrawal means the passage by Massachusetts of a preferential bill, patterned after that of Oregon.

Mayor Fitzgerald, first in the field as a Democratic candidate for the Senate, began at once his promised State-wide campaign. Samuel W Whipple, who was the Democratic nominee against Senator Lodge, may be named as a candidate against Fitzgerald, and other candidates are being groomed

Mayor Fitzgerald will begin at Athol tomorrow his campaign to succeed W. Murray Crane as Junior Senator from Massachusetts. He will address the business men of Athol tomorrow afternoon.

Mayor's Platform.

The Mayor has his Senatorial platform all arranged. It itemizes thus:

Rehabilitation of the merchant marine

National income tax.

Inland water ways

Direct election of United States Senators.

Government supervision of natural wealth

Revision of patent laws.

"I have campaigned all over the state," said the Mayor today. "I know its needs fully as well as any man who has been mentioned for the seat which Senator Crane will vacate.

"There is no office like that of Mayor of a big city to acquaint one with the actual needs of the people, and I feel that the experience I have had has equipped me with the necessary knowledge to make good."

The Mayor believes that the crying need of the country is the rehabilitation of the merchant marine. He says that if he is elected to the upper branch of Congress he shall pay particular attention to that question

ROOSEVELT TELLS BIG JERSEY CROWD HE'S FOR THE PEOPLE

PATERSON, N. J., May 23.—Declaring his fight in behalf of the people is the most important since the days of Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt made the first address of his New Jersey campaign here today He asserted he is not fighting for himself or for the Republican party, but only for the people He asserted his struggle for the Presidency was only a means to an end, his real object being to restore full sovereignty to the simple, healthy ideals with which [illegible] and the men who fifty years ago perpetuated it

"It is evident" he said, "that in this contest we are fighting what is much more than a factional fight, or even a party fight We, who within the Republican party are standing for the rights of the plain citizen, are also standing for the rights of every citizen, whatever his politics."

The ex-President declared that every [illegible] privilege was opposing him business and crooked politics was aligned [illegible] out of the colored a speech was

N. SALLINGER SAYS "LEST YOU FORGET"

THE BOSTON AMERICAN A YEAR AGO, ON THURSDAY APRIL 13th, PRINTED THE STORY OF MY WONDERFUL ORDER CHECK SYSTEM OF OBTAINING CREDIT AT THE BIG DEPARTMENT AND OTHER STORES. "LEST YOU FORGET" I REPRINT THE STORY IN TODAY'S AMERICAN

IN THE HEART OF THE CITY. ORDER CHECK EDITION, THURSDAY, MAY 23, 1912 "DIFFERENT FROM THE REST."

THE CREDIT CLOTHING BUSINESS OF BOSTON REVOLUTIONIZED

A Man or Woman Can Now Get Credit at the Big Department or Specialty Stores at Cash Bargain Prices and Pay One Dollar a Week

N. SALLINGER,
Whose Picture Is on This Page, Is the Proprietor of the Peoples Credit Co. — He Revolutionized the Credit Business in Boston—Mr. Sallinger Is the Originator of the Now Well-Known Peoples Credit Co.'s "Order Check," Taken as Cash in the Big Stores of Boston.

Mr. Sallinger Tells About His Wonderful Credit Idea and How He Came to Work It Out.

How the Old Style Credit Houses Overcharge

They say I revolutionized the "Credit" Clothing Business of Boston. Well, I guess I am a guilty revolutionist all right, and if the old-time Clothing and Jewelry Credit Houses could pronounce my sentence you would never hear from N. Sallinger again. However, "Be That as It May," as our old friend, George Munroe, would say—I am going to tell you something about the clothing on credit and credit jewelry business. Quite a few years ago I was in a position to study the credit business very closely and I found that the public, that part of the public that purchased clothing on credit, was being unmercifully roasted on everything purchased roasted on price and in quality.

I found that a woman who needed a suit, and through force of circumstances was obliged to go to a credit house for it, was charged from 200% to 300% profit on it—for instance, the suit for which the credit house paid $8 was charged to the woman at $20 to $25 a suit—if she needed a coat she had to pay at the same rate and simply because she had to buy on credit. Everything she bought she paid for at exorbitant prices, and the quality was always inferior and the style often years behind the times. When a man bought a suit or coat on credit the credit house charged him at the same rate, a suit that never cost the credit house over $10 was charged to the customer at $20 to $30, the same with the coat; there was no law to prevent it, not even a moral law, it seemed. A worse condition existed in the credit jewelry line. I have seen men and women pay on credit $25 for filled-case watches that never cost the credit house over $6.

New Thought On the Credit Business

The more I studied the credit business the more the rank injustice of the thing impressed itself upon me. So much so that it started me thinking. Now I don't want to pose as a reformer, or an "uplift," or a moralist, I am just a plain everyday business man, who stood out squarely against the then existing conditions, with the best thought and highest ideals for reform and progress in the credit business. As I said, the injustice of the whole credit system started me thinking, and I figured out that the man who would give the people who needed credit a decent run for their money would win out in the end. So I started in the credit business. I really gave the people a run for their money; but it was slow work building up a trade. The older credit houses had the attention of the public. They had big stores and they had lots of money, and I found it extremely difficult at that time to make the public appreciate my honest effort.

Trip Around the World to Study Universal Credit Conditions

I had the good fortune to take a trip around the world and took every advantage to study the various credit systems prevailing in foreign countries. Surprising to say that in every large city—London, Paris, Berlin, Moscow, Vladivostok, Yokohama, Tokio, Pekin, Honolulu and every principal city in the United States—I found that the antiquated credit system was in vogue. A person desiring credit was at the mercy of the old methods—small stock from which to select, cheap goods and exorbitant prices, characteristic of the peculiar style still practiced by most credit houses in New England. The fundamental principle governing all of them was the antiquated idea, "Give little and charge much." So you see I had nothing good to learn from the old methods, only the absolute necessity of improving them.

Birth of an Advanced Credit Idea

One day as I sat ALONE in my office I thought what a great thing it would be if the people who needed credit could walk into any of the Big Department Stores and get it; get credit on anything they needed, and not be charged one single cent more than they would have to pay if they had the cash. The idea took possession of me—the more I thought of it, the more I thought that the thing could be done.

The Millionaire Buys Clothing on Credit—Why Not All of Us?

I reasoned it out this way—say for instance: Mr. M., the millionaire, had an account at a Big Store. All he had to pay for what he bought was the regular cash price. He, like thousands of other well-to-do people, had his purchases charged, and paid for them when he got good and ready, and the Big Stores were glad to put his name and the names of thousands of others like him on their credit books. Now the people who really needed credit and who, when they went to the Credit Clothing Houses, were charged unmercifully high prices for it, could not get credit at the big stores. Why? Simply because they have no financial standing or rating, as it is called in the business world. The rich and well-to-do people have a financial standing that insures the payment of their accounts to the Big Stores. So you see credit is really a matter of insurance—and if you have someone of high financial standing to insure your account to the Big Store that it would be as easy for you to get credit there as it would be for any of the big store's customers.

BIG DEPARTMENT STORES BECOME INTERESTED IN MY CREDIT IDEA

With the credit idea as outlined to you here, I started out to revolutionize the credit business of Boston. I interested financiers. I interested the heads of the Big Department and specialty stores. I showed them where the credit houses were taking thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of business away from the big department stores, and overcharging the people year after year. The department store people saw a great light. They would willingly give credit to anyone whose account was properly insured or endorsed. Very well. I had my account properly insured. They would now give me—N. Sallinger—all the credit I wanted. I had the backing at that time of some of the biggest financiers in Boston, men who believed in me, and who believed in my idea; men who knew that I was doing a great and good thing for the people. These are the men who insured my account at the big stores. They made my signature—N. Sallinger—good for anything it called for.

BIRTH OF THE ORDER CHECK FOR THE PEOPLES CREDIT

And now, my friends, came the birth of the Order Check. The Peoples Credit Co.'s Order Check. It carries the signature of N. Sallinger, and is used by thousands of people just the same as cash at the Big Department and other stores in Boston. You go into any store you like, buy what you like, use my order check at that store and pay me when you like. How do you like that?

You see, the recognition of my Order Check—the Peoples Credit Co.'s Order Check—by the Big Department stores makes me their accredited representative, or in other words, the Credit Agent for the Big Stores. By the simple arrangement of the Peoples Credit Co. Order Check the Big Stores are not put to the trouble of opening up a lot of accounts. The Peoples Credit Co. gives you all the credit you want; you can pay your bill a dollar a week if you like, and get anything you want at cash bargain prices at the Big Stores.

HOW A WOMAN USES ORDER CHECK TO BUY BIG STORE BARGAINS ON CREDIT

For Instance Supposing a woman wants a suit, coat, skirt, hat or anything. She reads the Big Bargain Sale Ads of the Big Department and other stores, and she sees that Soand-So, a big, reputable house, is advertising a special sale of Serges, and for business reasons they are selling a $35 suit or coat for $17.75 cash.

The woman wants to take advantage of this excellent bargain, but she hasn't the cash. All she has to do is to come to the Peoples Credit Co. We give her an order check for the $17.75, and she uses it at the store the same as cash, gets what she wants, at just the same price as her neighbor, who has cash, would have to pay for it, and then she pays us a dollar a week, and then she has the label of a high class cash house on her clothing, and not the name of a cheap credit house. Isn't this better than going to the ordinary credit house, paying an exorbitant price for inferior goods?

Another Instance — Supposing a man wants a suit or an overcoat. He needs credit and doesn't care to patronize the ordinary credit house, where he knows that he will be outrageously overcharged for a shoddy garment of probably last year's style. Now what does the Peoples Credit Co. do for the man who needs credit?

In the first place the Peoples Credit Co. has no special brand of clothing to sell, nothing that it cares to force upon a man. He can buy through the Peoples Credit Co. the well-known standard brands of clothing—clothing of recognized merit and standardized price—clothing that has been widely advertised by reputable makers in the magazines and newspapers—clothing that up-to-date men know is O. K., the makers are well known, the quality is well known and the price is well known. We charge just the same price that is charged by the Big Clothing and Big Department Stores. Your neighbor who has the cash can't buy these brands of clothing for one nickel less for cash than you can on credit. This is the squarest, fairest and best deal ever given by any credit concern in the world.

N. SALLINGER'S AGREEMENT WITH HIGH-CLASS MEN'S CLOTHING MAKERS

Only agreement of its kind ever made in the United States. Under its provisions the public is allowed to purchase through the Peoples Credit Co. the best brands of clothing on credit—makes that have been advertised nationally and locally in the newspapers and magazines. N. Sallinger of the Peoples Credit Co. is bound by agreement with the makers not to charge you one cent more for these brands when you buy them on credit than you would pay if you bought them from your regular clothier for cash. The agreement is complete and absolute. You are fully protected Read the Labels.

Also we sell on credit a line of clothing that the manufacturers will not allow us to name, simply because several of the swell clothes shops on Washington street and Boylston street handle it and the makers don't want it mentioned in connection with credit arrangements. But we have it, and it's good very good, and we will sell it on credit at cash prices. So, you see, gentlemen, if you want the best there is and need credit, we can give it to you.

OVER 50,000 PEOPLE NOW USE MY FAMOUS ORDER CHECK

The tremendous growth of my business due to the popularity of our "Order Check" system of obtaining credit for my customers at the big stores rendered our old location at 433 Washington street totally inadequate for the proper accommodation and convenience of my patrons. On September 30, 1911, I opened the new location of the Peoples Credit Co., the largest and best appointed credit parlors in New England, covering the entire second floor of the building at 501 Washington street, corner of West street. My new quarters contain an area five times larger than my old office.

A WONDERFUL EVOLUTION IN CREDIT SERVICE

It was very pleasing to me to have my credit service mentioned in one of our largest newspapers as follows: "N. Sallinger has instituted a wonderfully efficient credit service for our city. It is a pleasure to obtain credit through the well conducted offices of the Peoples Credit Co., at 501 Washington street. Mr. Sallinger has surrounded himself with a corps of efficient assistants—men and women who possess in a great degree the art of accommodating and pleasing customers. A particularly pleasing feature of Mr. Sallinger's institution is the privacy accorded all transactions. Private offices for all customers. None of the annoying publicity that is so objectionable in doing business with ordinary credit houses."

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC

Do not be deceived by those antiquated credit houses and small "peddler concerns," who are using my phraseology to mislead the public by pretending to have a system similar to mine.

My system is superior to any other inaugurated, and my high grade methods of conducting the credit business appeal to the enlightened. Before making any purchases on credit investigate my unique system and become convinced of its superior character.

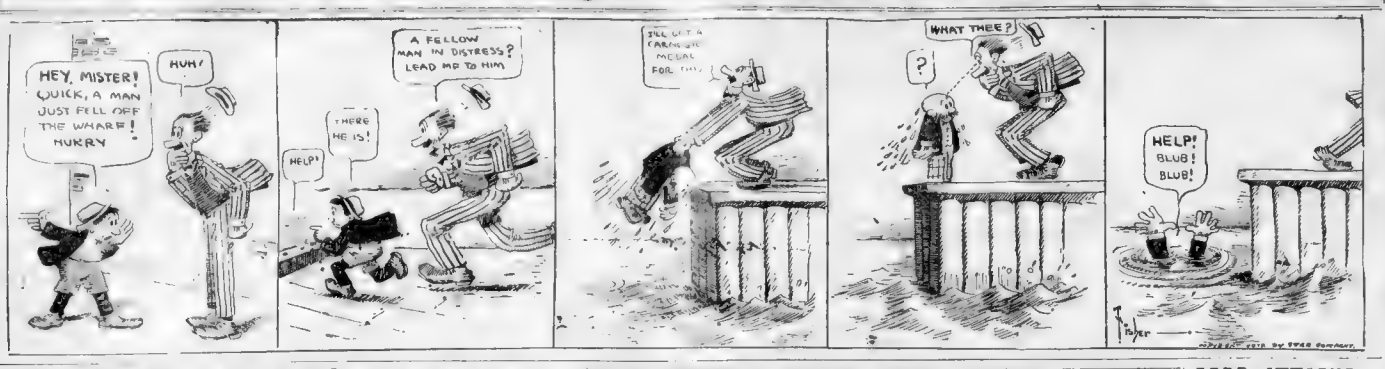
PILGRIMS OUT TO REPEAT VICTORY OVER THE PIRATE CREW

Mutt Shouldn't Allow His Personal Feelings to Interfere with His Duty — By "Bud" Fisher



COBB'S ACT HAD ITS PRECEDENT

There is much discussion pro and con over the stand Ty Cobb took when he refused to play in the game Ban Johnson had ordered to commemorate the different achievements of Babe Ruth. Cobb passed in the middle of a game he was playing at Philadelphia and went to the stand after a rowdy who was abusing him.

Babe ripped most of the raiment off the party, busted his face and chucked the bleeding victim over the railing onto the playing field. There a platoon of cops grabbed the gory pugnants, dragged them across the diamond and kicked the bejabbers into the street.

At the time of the shindig Umpire Ban Johnson was sitting in a box. The umpire consulted Ban a moment and Babe bounded over the railing after wiping the blood off his hands. Likewise Ban reinserted Wetlell during the season without any explanation. It was one thing to do worry and another thing to be stuck on umpires sold.

Cobb should try another dodge. The fight game is with it as the baseball game has not avoided the natural pastime. There is work for Cobb at that.

George Ezra, who umpires in the United States League, is home at rest in Cincinnati because he could not pick up a paper for three days without finding his name in print. Ezra tried to make Ball obey the law. They passed a large amount of assault against him.

Jim Block, the catching keeper of the White Sox, was put out of the game for the season as the result of two months' training as the pitcher's finger was split in two from the end to the second joint. The injured digit was pared in a plaster cast and will remain there for about six weeks. Little good can be done for the finger, which will be a stiff affair if bone heals properly.

After a brief and stormy career the new United States League of baseball is reported to be going on the rocks. A break has appeared in Cleveland, for which the league was created from the ruins of the Federal League. Forest City Baseball Association has temporarily had enough of baseball and will not put a team in the field this season. Cleveland fans are not baseball enthusiasts, and the new league will have a hard time to get a foothold in the Forest City.

RILEY'S COLUMN

WHEN John M. Ward looked over his pitching roster, at the beginning of the season, he found among those untried and not ready "King" Brady and Walter R. Dickson. Ward thought that the "king" might look good, but he opined that Dickson was not yet ready and thought he would lean him out for a season, so as to acquire experience.

• • •

THE writer of this column argued that Walter Dickson was the better of the two and would make good sooner than "King" Brady would. Also the same opinion was exchanged with Johnny Kling. Well, the Pilgrims [illegible] found themselves with a surplus of sore-armed pitchers and Dickson had to be retained.

• • •

THE [illegible] Dickson is still pitching with the regulars and Brady is [illegible] keeping in practice but not working on the mound. Dickson [illegible] used from day to day and yesterday shut out the Pirates easily, after a lad had so pitched almost his whole corps of other pitchers, trying to stop them on the two preceding days.

• • •

HOW do you figure it? Well, Dickson has been coming and is still on his way to there, while Brady has been tried along in big league and off league company and does not appear to change from day to day. Dickson seems to keep 'em scattering their hits and hitting them "where they ain't." Looking at their trials in detail, Brady shows the most "stuff," but when they play baseball Dickson wins the most games. He looks like a "future."

• • •

CHARLEY Hall is still one of the ablest men Jake Stahl has on his payroll. Hall was the most reliable twirler Stahl had at the opening of the season, but showed little signs of weakness in his last two appearances. After a rest he "came back" yesterday and pitched Cleveland into a shut-out with only six scattered hits and three boys on bases. Only men reached second and none went further. Hall batted for 1,000, his hits figuring in four of the nine Red Sox runs.

• • •

JOE JACKSON—"Stonewall" who smashed his way to the top of the American League batting list in his first appearance last year and raced in the front ranks at the end of the season, was the easiest kind of material for "Buck" O'Brien and Charley Hall.

• • •

WITH Ty Cobb out of the game, Tris Speaker has been moved to assert himself as a candidate for the speediest man on the bases in the American League. In pursuance of his plan, he stole second and third in the first inning yesterday, stole second in the third and, incidentally, in three times in four times [illegible] Speaker heads the Red Sox batting and base stealing columns.

• • •

LARRY GARDNER hit safely three times in four appearances yesterday. Gardner has reached the point where baseball writers are beginning to concede that he is the best third baseman in the league. An interesting comparison could be made in the White Sox series, where Gardner outplayed Harry Lord in hitting, in ground fielding, in the [illegible] of hits in throwing and in every other department of the game. He did it so consistently that you have to concede him superiority over the lordling of the American League third basemen, who has to [illegible] and thought, could never be made good.

• • •

THIS year Princeton joins the field in the Cornell-Harvard race of the Charles. It looks like Cornell ought to win, Harvard second and the Tigers third. This afternoon will be cold for boat racing, and the water is likely to be choppy.

• • •

IT'S still coming to Battling Nelson. The latest in a letter from the Battler in that a $11,000,000 steel mill is to be built on the land adjoining his Hegewisch, Ill., farm and on the other side an interurban railroad has erected a depot. The Battler is now arranging to lay out his big farm into building lots and has refused an offer of $4,000 an acre, saying that he will fill it with small cottages for honest working men and sell them at reasonable terms.

BROOKLYN lost and the Pilgrims are out of the cellar again. When you get 'em down there they fight their way out while the Browns the usual occupants of the ground floor in the other league, are waiting for some of the higher fellows to quit and come down, according to the latest from St. Louis. Difference between Boston and St. Louis.

Rhodes Scholars Out for Olympic Places

NEW YORK, May 23.—Two American Rhodes scholars in Oxford University, W. A. Ziegler and R. B. Lange have requested the American Olympic Committee to enter them for the Olympic games at Stockholm in July.

With G. S. Putnam of Kansas, Ziegler and Lange competed against the American college athletes last Spring in the Oxford-Cambridge-Yale-Harvard meet.

All of them showed well, and it was the success of Putnam that got the American colors for the meet.

PROMOTER CURLEY WEDS DENVER GIRL

LAS VEGAS, N. M., May 23.—Jack Curley, promoter of the Flanagan-Johnson fight and manager of Jess Pueblo pugilist, took the count from Miss Cupid after he signed a document and in a double wedding Miss Marie Drescher, a stenographer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Drescher of Denver and New York city, and Mrs. Curley and his bride left for the Pueblo ring in Denver two weeks ago. Miss Drescher's mother and father arrived here yesterday.

BROCKTON PLAYER WEDS.

George H. Boardman of the Brockton team, leading third baseman in the New England League is being congratulated today on his marriage to Miss Mildred Reed of No. 522 Tremont street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Allen A. Stockdale of the Union Congregational Church at his home.

YALE WINS AT TENNIS.

NEW HAVEN, May 23.—The Yale tennis team defeated the University of Penn tennis team here by a score of 6 to 0, 6 matches. Only in one match in the singles did the visitors put up a stiff fight.

STEINFELDT GOES SOUTH.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—Harry Steinfeldt, former Chicago National third baseman and recently released by the St. Louis club, has signed a contract with the Chattanooga Southern League club.

Says United States League Is to Stick

CINCINNATI, O., May 23.—President John J. Ryan, owner of the Cincinnati franchise of the United States Baseball League, is in Cleveland in connection with Cleveland magnates of the same league. Manager McKinnon of the Cincinnati club emphatically denied that there was any probability of a disbandment of the Cincinnati club or any other club.

"I am getting ready to leave with the Cincinnati team for Richmond, Va., today, for having any games scheduled here. We will play the Richmond team tomorrow. Not any state positively that the Cincinnati team will remain in the United States League," he said.

Tim Presley, the Cincinnati team pilot, says a game with Cleveland because there were only seven paid admissions at the gate.

BOSTON MARKSMEN WIN.

PORTLAND, Me., May 23.—The Pale Face Gun Club of Boston defeated the Portland Gun Club by six clicks in a [illegible] bird match here in a tenstand team match.

Carpentier Winner Over Willie Lewis

PARIS, May 23.—Georges Carpentier, the middleweight champion of England and France, was declared the winner over Willie Lewis, the American middleweight pugilist, after twenty-four rounds of fighting at the Cirque de Paris.

Lewis had a slight advantage up to the thirteenth round, but Carpentier, who had been holding himself in reserve, carried the fight to the American.

Besides receiving considerable punishment, Lewis had to be cautioned. He lost his temper and used questionable tactics.

Carpentier, it is understood, will be matched to fight Payne at Dieppe on June 24.

KIRKWOOD LEADER.

SHORT HILLS, N. J., May 23.—Oswald Kirkby of Kirkwood, with a card of 164, led in the qualifying round of thirty-six holes in the fourteenth annual championship tournament for the Metropolitan Golf Association, over the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club.

COBB ATTACKS LEAGUE'S HEAD

DETROIT, Mich., May 23.—Ty Cobb is the busiest person in the entire city today handing out a few extra knocks to Ban Johnson, the Czar and League head and the latter's methods in general.

In a statement given out today Cobb says: "Johnson is the first operative the most overbearing and the most [illegible] person in baseball. His attack on the Detroit players and myself was entirely unwarranted.

"One of two things is certain, either he was dead wrong in this affair, or he was [illegible] here by approved by 'short and ugly' in emphatic fashion.

"Johnson cannot harm me by keeping me out of the league. He only harms the fans of the team. My salary goes on just the same.

"He was entirely wrong when he suspended us without a hearing. This is inexcusable. The [illegible] after a good deal sooner or [illegible] get a fair deal from Johnson or [illegible] Johnson or league can [illegible] their stand. If the two are just two schemers, Johnson and Lajoie."

CORNELL CREWS RACE FAVORITES

Cornell is picked to win both varsity and freshman races in the big triangular regatta which will be held this afternoon over a mile and seven-eighth course in the Charles River Basin.

The crew from Ithaca is looked upon to defeat the crack Harvard combination and the Princeton eight in the big varsity race, but not without a struggle, as both the Crimson and the Tigers have eights that rank favorably with any in past years.

The oarsmen will take the work at the starting line close to the Cottage Farm bridge and the finish will be off the Union Boathouse on the Basin.

The crews are in the very best condition for the race, having trained faithfully for the past six weeks. Harvard has been working out on the Charles all season, while the Princeton and Cornell oarsmen have been on the scene for a couple of days and have familiarized themselves with the course.

Cornell appears to be the slight favorite in the workouts the men have had on the local waters, they showed good form and also that they were like most of Courtney's crews, clever watermen. The crew took two workouts on the river yesterday morning and those who saw it perform predicted a win for the Ithacans.

Cornell Takes a Spin.

Assistant Coach John Hoyle, who has charge of the crew on this trip, took his men out on the water shortly after 11 o'clock for a practice spin. The crew got off in fine shape, all hitting the water together and using a strong stroke that gave them good speed. The men rowed down to the Cottage Farm Bridge and then followed the course down to the finishing line. For the first mile the boys hit up about twenty four strokes to the minute and at the finish were going a merry thirty-eight.

The crew rowed a pretty stroke, all catching together and recovering in fine style and resembling the well drilled crew of Cornell's last year. The men handled their oars good and the blade work was good, although the feathering could be improved.

Rough in the Basin.

The water in the basin was quite rough, but the oarsmen ploughed right through it and mastered the waves with good ease. Coach Hoyle was not satisfied into the boat and when they got back to the Harvard shed was well filled.

Princeton will send a lightest crew in the race but the boys are showing good advantage of our expectations to give Cornell and Harvard a hard time. The Tigers rowed a strong race last Saturday, finishing a good [illegible] during the [illegible] crew and [illegible] Tigers keep [illegible] to the mark [illegible] almost twelve pounds [illegible] than to average of the Crimson crew.

The Tigers took their first workout on the Charles yesterday morning and also followed the crew over the course. Coach Lee [illegible] showing several times that he could be made in the four [illegible] well drilled crew [illegible] a steady stroke [illegible] the men have [illegible] getting back just [illegible] to the water.

Princeton Used to Smooth Water.

On the home course the Princeton crew has had nothing but smooth water to row on and when the sled hit the rough water in the basin yesterday it was a surprise to them. The water was a bit choppy at first but they plodded right along in the showing. From the Cottage Farm Bridge course from the Cottage Farm Bridge to the Union Boathouse starting it rained for nearly the first mile, facing it by thirty-two and finishing with a rush for all thirty nine strokes to the minute. The boat was well filled with water from the sprays and the men were covered from head to foot. At the Union Boathouse and when the sled pulled to the Weld Boathouse it was again well filled.

Though Wray has worked hard, all Harvard oarsmen in preparation for the race and he expects his crew to show good showing against the Orange and Black and Red and White boats. Harvard will have the weight on the other two and the advantage of being familiar with the course. The oarsmen are working with a fine strong stroke and show good form in smooth and rough water.

Among the old oarsmen and critics who have watched the workouts of the crews the past three days, it is expected that the crews will finish in this order: Harvard and Princeton. Princeton will put up a strong race, however, and Harvard will have to row hard to nose it out and the Cornell crew must row at least to beat Harvard, but it is thought the Ithaca shell will prove equal to the occasion.

RYAN IS NOT TO "TEACH" FLYNN

By ED W. SMITH.

Tommy Ryan isn't going to join the Jim Flynn camp with any idea of teaching the big Australian freeman how to box or how to fight. He is merely going to try to show him a way to whip Jack Johnson at Las Vegas, N. M., July 4.

This is what Ryan says in a letter I got from him at Oakland, Cal., last night. The gist of Tommy's talk is to the effect that Flynn is too old a bird to take the ring instruction stuff for a change of style at this time. It would not be safe to let Ryan, to make [illegible] months [illegible] has used with success for a long time.

But Tommy thinks he can show him some tricks worth while, tricks that can be used with a great deal of effect by a fighter training for the big fight and after the fight has started.

Morrow Is Doing Well.

"We're here Morrow and I trained for Howard's battle with Sailor Petersen," Ryan writes. "That will be Howard's fourth battle since coming here and he won all of them handily enough, showing constantly improving form.

"Like other three wars at ten pounds, which he [illegible] Morrow [illegible] with ease, but it is [illegible] he [illegible] the same [illegible] I [illegible] and [illegible] for a long time.

"I don't anticipate any great trouble with him. He'll have a good shape at poundage [illegible].

"Right after Petrosky fight we leave for Las Vegas, where I will [illegible] Flynn training for the fight. Morrow will [illegible] of work with Flynn which will be a good thing for both of them.

"I have seen it stated in several papers that I am going to join Jim Flynn's camp with the idea of teaching him a few [illegible] boxing. Nothing of the kind is to be [illegible] the idea [illegible] Flynn is [illegible] of the best fighters now [illegible] though [illegible] and [illegible] would be fatal if it were not impossible.

"As for me with, Flynn has been going along in a certain way and I might say he has his own style of [illegible] I [illegible] on hand at the game, too old, in fact, to stand for a shift in tactics now, especially in the limited time I would have to show him things.

Condition Will Count

"So there's only one thing to do with Flynn. That is to get him into the best of condition and then throw him in the ring and let him do the best he can. It will be the best of [illegible] and something.

"There's this about my presence that will be valuable to him. Doubtless I am ready what defects may show up in him as one of the finer points of training. I'll tell him how to snap [illegible] if it is possible to do so, but I am not sure that it will not be at a sacrifice of his own way of doing things.

"Flynn is naturally tough and game and as hard as any of them, in fact, over-and is big enough. With these natural qualifications we have to work with and I'm hoping he'll win, as every white man should, and I'll do my best to get him out of it a winner. But after the fight is all over and the bell sounds it will be largely up to Flynn. And if he's in shape he's got a grand chance, too."

All of which should be reassuring to those who would like to see the title change hands on July 4.

Pay $9.00 per Year for the smartest Shoe Styles

GIVEN the required degree of Style, Fit and Finish it is, after all, Wear—length of Wear—that actually determines Shoe Value.

But, because of heavy advances in Leather, etc., this combination, glossy new, known, and deliverable period of Long Wear has grown rare enough to be interesting.

We foresaw that condition,—coming.

So, we invited Chemistry to aid us in toughening, and lengthening the life of animal fibre.

We sought a means to check the disintegrating action of Oxygen in the Air, upon Leather.

The result amounts to almost a Revolution in Shoe Values.

We do not ask you to take anything "for granted," concerning this.

Instead, we now offer you a strong Indemnity Bond with every pair of our new 1912 range of "Six-Month" Regal Shoes (at $4.50).

That Bond secures to you (beyond question or equivocation) a fixed term of continuous Shoe-Wear, which term is just about double that of the average fine Shoe sold at $4.00 to $5.00.

It secures to you (in binding legal form) some of the Smartest and Latest Shoe Styles in America, at a cost of only 75 cents per Month—or $9.00 per year—for Shoe Service.

As the average fine Shoe Wears through Outsole, or breaks through Upper, after 3 Months continuous wear that fact means $16.00 per year for average "$4.00 Shoe" Wear.

Contrast that cost, per year, with the $9.00 per year cost of continuous Wear pledged specifically to you, under legal Bond, in the new 1912 range of Regal "Six-Month" Shoes.

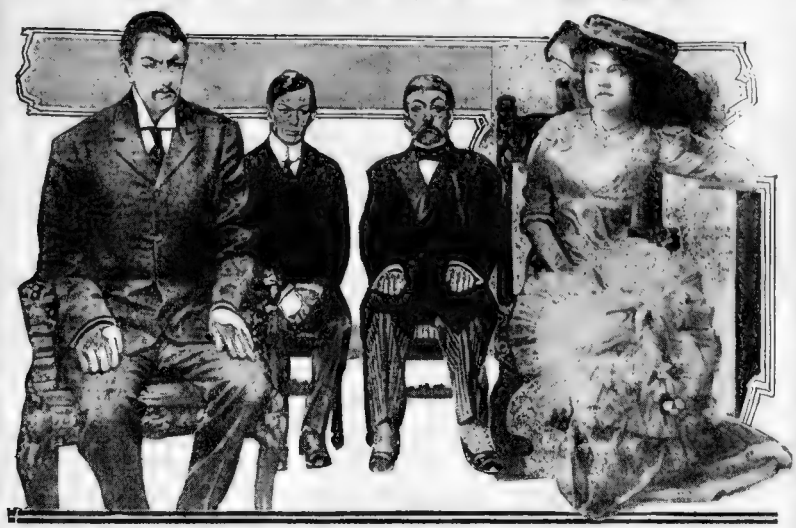
A Story of Japanese Plotters—Love, Mystery and Tragedy Based on the Great Play Now Running in New York

TERI WARNS THE JAPANESE THAT TOKORAMO IS SURELY DYING.



"That is what I said," declared the girl. "The man is killing himself with worry and work just as fast as he can."

By J. W. M'CONAUGHY

Copyright 1912, by American-Journal Examiner

"THAT is what I said," declared the girl, the nurse in her up in arms. "The man is killing himself with worry and work just as fast as he can."

"My dear young lady!" exclaimed Joshikawa. "I think that you must certainly be mistaken. One of our good friends—Dr. Omayi, seldom fails to call on Tokoramo at least once a day, and he says that he is not tired and will need a long rest when he has finished his work. But he says there is no cause for alarm."

"I am not a doctor," replied Teri, setting her foot tightly together. "But I have as much common sense as most people. It doesn't take any difference what the doctor says in the matter with him. Whatever it is—whatever you choose to call it—it is killing him. I know that much and I should think that any one could see it."

The old man looked more concerned than ever and was apparently giving her words the greatest consideration when she spoke again.

"What is the work that he is doing? Is it so important that he has to sacrifice his life to it? Won't it keep until he can recover his health?" she demanded.

Joshikawa raised his hand as if to reassure her, but he answered gravely:

"We are not in Tokoramo's confidence. All we know is that he is engaged in a work which is, he says, of the most important to our people. He has told me that it must be completed—that his excellency, the Prime Minister, expects it by the first of the month."

"Well," said Teri, somewhat tartly, "His Excellency, the Prime Minister, will not get it. That is my opinion."

"What do you mean?" exclaimed Joshikawa.

"I mean that I think Tokoramo will breakdown within a few days—if he hasn't broken down in the night. Can't you men help him, or make him rest a few days?"

The old man shook his head. "We would gladly do anything in our power, Miss Teri," he said, "but, unfortunately, both of these things that you suggest are beyond our power."

"Why?" insisted the girl.

"It is very simple," replied Joshikawa with a slight shrug of his shoulders. "His work is something that we know nothing about. We all of us, who know him, have offered to help, but he has refused all of us. As to his resting—he is in the service of his country, and he would rather die at his desk than give up until his work is completed. Dr. Omayi has begged him to take care of himself, but he will listen to none of us."

A little silence followed this explanation. The toe of Teri's shoe tapped the floor.

"At least you could persuade him to leave that house," she suggested.

"Leave that house? Why?" asked Joshikawa.

"Because the atmosphere there is as bad for him as the work that he is doing. Think of it!" she exclaimed with a little heat. "He is working there, day and night, in the very place—probably the very room—where the woman he loved was murdered!"

The Japanese did not appear to be greatly improved by this fact.

"Have you suggested this to Tokoramo?" asked Kobohashi.

"Yes, I did," replied the girl. "I begged him to leave—to go away to the country. He said that he did not have time to. Plunge the settled order of things at this point. If he tries to stay there and work to the end it will be the end for him in more ways than one!"

The others said nothing and after a little pause Teri broke out impatiently.

"If you would only help I am sure we could do something with him!" she cried. "I can't let him go on this way. I would do anything in the world for him but he won't let me. If you will help—if you will reason with him, I will take a house out in the country where I will go and other place that is quiet and different, and I will stay there with him and take care of him until—until—he is through with his work."

"My dear fraulein!" protested Kobohashi, "we could not accept this sacrifice from you."

"You are not being asked to accept it," retorted the girl, but with a little smile. "I am doing it for Tokoramo."

"Godly, godly!" interpreted Joshikawa to his most fatherly manner. "Kobohashi's feelings about the matter are perfectly natural, my dear fraulein, but it is, as you say, I am beginning to fear—a serious situation."

He paused and thought rapidly for a few moments, while the others waited for him to speak.

"I do think Tokoramo would be willing to go with you," he said. "He would go anywhere to finish his work. I am sure that he would be glad of the opportunity to get away from the business of the Embassy. Miss Preis, who knows Tokoramo well, has been urging him to do so for some time, and certainly not to be followed. Miss Preis—Miss Hay and Miss Gardner would grow fretful because they had nothing to do except for meals and Ada Belle and Maude Allen would pay [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

NOW, ROSAMOND, YOU ARE MINE. I TOLD THEM CLAUDE WAS A TRAITOR, HA, HA!
DESMOND, YOU CUR, UNHAND ME. I LOVE ONLY CLAUDE ECLAIRE!
HERSHFIELD

I.—ARRESTED.

The Czar having detected Claude in the imperial kitchen—whither our hero had gone merely to get a chunk of cherry pie—is convinced that he has captured a spy. And Rosamond, Claude's beautiful sweetheart, is deemed an accomplice by the somewhat pinheaded man who rules the destinies of the vast Russian Empire and its peoples.

II.—BEHIND THE BARS.

In obedience to the Czar's orders, Claude Eclaire and the beautiful Rosamond are thrown into jail, where their cell is next to that occupied by the notorious Desmond, the great international crook, to whose foul plot to dire the incarceration of the lovers in this Russian Bastile. Although a prisoner himself, Desmond does not give up hope of yet capturing Rosamond from hero Claude.

III.—ANOTHER MORDKIN.

Among his other accomplishments, Desmond is something of a dancer. He has danced the turkey trot and the Texas Tommy, the can-can and many other dances in different countries. Now, before a critical audience of Russians, he ventures upon the national dance, and with such success that the jailers applaud him as another Mordkin, as they relax their watchfulness.

IV.—THE KEYS.

As Desmond whirls about in the gymnastic gyrations of the dance, he keeps his eyes open for an opportunity to take advantage of his guard's carelessness. Noticing the great bunch of keys in the warden's hands, the dancing villain edges closer, and with a sudden kick manages to pick the huge keyring up on his foot before the guards can guess at his object.

V.—THE REVOLUTIONISTS.

Outside the great jail are many revolutionists trying to devise means to rescue their friends of the cause who are confined behind the cruel walls. The strength of the jail, however, seems to forbid any attempt at assault, and the crowd is mournful until, suddenly, there comes hurtling through the air the great bunch of keys. With cries of joy the men advance upon the building.

VI.—IN THE VILLAIN'S GRASP.

"I'm the boyski," cries Desperate Desmond, "and I've got the girlski." The scoundrel has indeed been freed by the revolutionists and allowed to take Rosamond with him, while the protestations of Claude Eclaire go utterly unheeded by these rough men, who believe what Desmond tells them. The fate of our three characters will be shown tomorrow.

Levanzin Describes Horrors of Long Nights, Shut Up in Coffin-Like Calorimeter

FORCED TO WASH FACE IN DIRTY WATER; FLAYS CARNEGIE INSTITUTON'S "POVERTY."

In the second installment of the story of Professor Agostino Levanzin, which he is writing exclusively for the AMERICAN, he tells in an enthralling and absorbing manner of the remarkable apparatus and his own impressions during his first days in a scientific laboratory.

He describes at length the "coffin calorimeter" in which he was hermetically sealed each night while oxygen was fed to him by an air manufacturing machine. He tells of the respiration tests. He gives details of the various experiments which he took in the laboratory. He gives his own impressions of the early days of the great fast. He reiterates his dissatisfaction at the personal conduct of Dr. Benedict towards himself.

By AGOSTINO LEVANZIN.

I told yesterday something about the calorimeter and my first impressions of this marvelous instrument. Before continuing I should like to tell more about this invention, which received its greatest test by my experience.

There are several kinds of calorimeters. The one which has the form of a chamber is called the Atwater-Benedict, because it was invented by Professor Atwater of Middletown, Ct., and developed by Professor Benedict, who at that time was his assistant.

Becoming director of the Nutrition Laboratory, he travelled to Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg, and having learned all the good qualities of the other calorimeters he contrived the present one, which we call the "coffin calorimeter," which, when well managed is the acme of perfection. There is nothing like it in any laboratory in the whole world. There are several for babies and for animals, but there is only one that can hold a man—and that is the one which I occupied at the Carnegie Laboratory.

It cost more than $3,000 and is all lined with asbestos, so that if a fire breaks out and the laboratory is burned to cinders, the man in the calorimeter will be unhurt. Although the man who is watching the calorimeter might die, the person in the calorimeter will continue to live without discovering the fact, because within the calorimeter there is stored oxygen enough to keep him alive for more than four hours.

This Professor Benedict proved several times upon himself. When the oxygen is all consumed, headache sets in. If one wishes to escape and nobody is about, he can break the side, which is a door of heavy glass hermetically sealed every night with beeswax, by means of the heavy telephone. This, of course, lets air come in. Then he can either wait until somebody comes or continue to break the glass, creep on his stomach and come out by himself.

Uncanny Sensation.

One of the most harrowing sensations about this calorimeter is that a black curtain is put behind your head and after the glass door is fastened the application of the screws makes one feel as if he heard crews fastening him in his coffin. But when you get over the sense of congestion the calorimeter is comfortable because the temperature is kept always at 70 degrees. You lie on a soft air mattress, well covered with a blanket and undisturbed by light or noises.

Although the calorimeter is so secured that no air can enter, if you ring the bell continuously they can open it within the interval of fifteen seconds. Every movement of the person within is registered upon a dial on the outside.

The most important test of a fasting man up to this time was made by Professor Loulani's experiment on Succi in 1889. His only way of measuring the temperature of the body during a fast was to put for one minute the clinical thermometer in the mouth or under the armpit, three or four times a day.

During the whole period of experimentation only about 90 body heat measurements were obtained.

During my fast complete measurements have been obtained of the external body heat for 856 hours, and of at least 650 hours of internal body heat. From this one instance we can imagine the great benefit to be derived from this experiment, in comparison with what has been done before.

In my case there were more than 1,000 hours of positive measurement and only one-half hour in Succi's case.

Horace Fletcher slept in this same calorimeter and compared it to sleeping in a Venetian gondola. I, when asked by Professor Benedict, compared it to sleeping in a ship's berth.

This, of course, is when the calorimeter is in proper hands as when it is under the surveillance of Mr. Rammes, who is connected by Professor Benedict as the cleverest man in the world to take charge of a calorimeter. I from my personal experience, fully confirm this statement, but when the calorimeter is left in the hands of unskilled or instinctive people it makes living in it one of the most uncomfortable if not dangerous things in life.

My first night in the calorimeter was April 10. During the first three days I followed my ordinary mixed diet, and I used to go out to a restaurant on Huntington Avenue, and I was free to choose what I liked.

During this period all the experiments were started during my normal condition. During this time I had no complaint to make, and except for the anxiety caused by my nightly burial in the calorimeter I had no trouble.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

"FASTING KILLS ANIMALS; MEN ARE HARD TO GET"

Dr. F. G. Benedict, director of the Carnegie Nutritiou Laboratory, described briefly some of the scientific results obtained through the fast which he conducted with Professor Agostino Levanzin as the subject in a lecture before members of the Harvard Medical Alumni Association at the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Benedict said that Professor Levanzin had been a remarkable subject; that he had co-operated with the doctors making the test in every way and had actually made a record fast, but claimed that the strain had affected the man's mind. Distilled water was the only matter which passed the man's lips during the entire period.

Dr. Benedict said some remarkable and valuable data was obtained. He declared some of the most important matters had not been figured out, while others would not be given out at present.

Levanzin was subjected to a long routine examination every day, which included tests for sensibility to electric shock, several X-ray examinations, complete clinical examination, heat, pulse and blood tests and many others.

Dr. Benedict first described the Carnegie Laboratory and the experiments which are being carried on there. He introduced a large number of lantern slides to illustrate the apparatus and results obtined.

Test Fatal to Animals.

It is difficult, he said, to obtain human beings to experiment with regarding nutrition and therefore the doctors use animals, such as dogs, cats, rats, rabbits and guinea pigs. The results with the latter animals are almost always fatal.

A slide was exhibited showing a large dog lying in a small calorimeter similar to the one in which Levanzin was forced to spend twelve hours a day. This instrument measures the heat given off by the body and in the case of the dogs is also arranged for numerous other purposes. A record of the movements of the dog is kept on a long paper tape.

"If the dog is a good subject and doesn't make any great fuss over not having food, we obtain some fine records," Professor Benedict said. "A good dog keeps still.

"About a year ago I received a letter from a man in Malta offering to come here and make a fast in the interest of science. I was delighted to hear of such a man, for these subjects are very rare. The man claimed to have a fine record for fasting and to be something of an authority on the subject. I investigated his case and wrote to him several times. The result was that Levanzin came here and entered the laboratory for a thirty-day fast.

"When he entered he made a three-day preliminary test, during which period food was administered as usual. All during the thirty days' period the subject was not given nourishment of any kind. Distilled water was the only matter which we gave him.

"The subject showed marked interest in his case and his records were kept on a large blackboard where he could watch his daily progress. He seemed to be a man who understood thoroughly what he was doing and who was an admirable subject in every way.

"We tested him for numerous things, such as for sensibility to electric shock. All of these tests were of the greatest value. The subject was placed in the calorimeter at 6 o'clock in the evening and kept there until 8 the next morning. Various tubes ran out from this instrument by which we tested for matters. The subject slept well while he was in the calorimeter and he was watched every minute by either myself or some of my assistants. We were very careful to note his every change.

"I wish to say at this point that the subject was an excellent one; he co-operated with us in every possible manner. This, of course, is necessary to secure the proper results.

"A certain routine was observed every day, but the subject was practically free to do as he chose after he was removed from the calorimeter. He was allowed to read and move about the laboratory. On every pleasant day he was taken for a two-hour drive or allowed to go on the roof of the laboratory and get the air and sunshine. For a man who was going through such a test he showed a brilliant and active mind.

"At the end of ten days, however, an increasing lassitude could be noted. This became marked toward the latter part of the fast, although on two occasions he demonstrated that his mind was in excellent condition. One of these was when an X-ray was made and later when a clinical examination was held. He was also examined by a group of fourth year students from the Harvard and Tufts Medical Schools. He proved very entertaining to his visitors.

"The body lost weight at the rate of about one pound a day. The general health of the subject continued well.

"When the man entered the test it was agreed that he was to fast for thirty days if no serious results were encountered during the period. At the end of the thirty days' period I wished for the subject to break the fast, but he wished to continue in order to establish a record. I allowed him to do this and a record was made.

"There are some persons who feel that they know something of fasting and who seem to hold to a foolish belief that it is proper to break a fast on vegetable matter. The error of this has been demonstrated. The subject was under my care and direction and I wished him to break the fast on clam juice, which he refused to do. He insisted that he wanted vegetable matter. When I saw that it was useless to argue the matter I asked him what he wished and he said oranges. So he was provided with oranges and insisted on sifting the juice through animal tracts with undiluted orange juice."

At this point a slide was exhibited showing Levanzin sitting at a table surrounded by oranges and drinking the juice.

"The result was that the man was taken suddenly ill and suffered acutely for some time. He was put to bed at the laboratory and cared for for two days. During this time we placed him on the proper diet and he recovered.

The Governor Should Stand on His Own Feet

The Executive Council Divides and Diminishes His Responsibility and Should Be Abolished—At Least LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE IT

The trend of government development in the United States of late years has been toward the old, time-honored town meeting system, where the people vote directly for men and then hold the men responsible for their acts.

When a man is elected to office and other men are elected to see that the first man is faithful in the performance of his duties, the PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY with which the first man is invested is in a large measure removed.

Governor Foss, in a message to the Legislature, suggests along these lines that it would be advisable for Massachusetts to eliminate the Executive Council.

This body, as the Governor points out, is an old institution. Massachusetts is never in a hurry to give up the old for the new. That is a wise course, unless the NEW IS BETTER THAN THE OLD.

The Executive Council in this State is an elective body, chosen from eight councilmanic districts, each man representing his own particular section. These men are sent to the State House, presumably, to act as a check on the Governor in connection with his apointments and expenditures and in his exercise of the pardoning power.

Only two other States in the Union find it necessary to elect such bodies as safety valves on the Chief Executive of the State. The question arises, isn't the Executive Council a sort of vermiform appendix to the office of Governor?

The Governor in his message says:

> To the end that there may be undivided responsibility to the people, I recommend that provision be made for the submission to popular vote of the question of abolishing the Executive Council and conferring upon the Governor the full power of appointment, the power of removing administrative officers for cause, and all the other powers that properly belong to a responsible executive.

Why not make the Governor stand ALONE and not divide or diminish his responsibility by electing a council to pass on his acts?

WHY NOT LET THE PEOPLE DO THAT?

It is sometimes very easy for a Governor to fall back on the argument that he cannot accomplish what he PROMISED because he is hampered by the council. Under such circumstances it is difficult, if not impossible, to place responsibility.

The AMERICAN favors direct legislation and favors DIRECT RESPONSIBILITY. The AMERICAN believes that the Governor, and he alone, should be held responsible to the people for the execution of the laws.

The office of councillor is largely honorary. The members are paid $800 a year. There would be plenty of men for the council if the pay were half that much, or nothing at all.

The day is coming when the people will insist on having men to represent them in looking after the affairs of the State WHO ARE WELL PAID and who are required to render a full measure of service in return for their wages. Honorary positions will be eliminated.

Governor Foss asks that the question of the abolition of the Executive Council be submitted to the VOTE OF THE PEOPLE. THAT, AT LEAST SHOULD BE DONE.

The Passing of Senator Crane

It Offers a Fine Opening to Put an Able, Progressive and Aggressive Democrat in His Seat

W. Murray Crane, junior United States Senator from Massachusetts, and a discerning business man and politician, will not be a candidate for re-election next year. There's a reason.

Senator Crane has interpreted the spirit of the times, even as Daniel read the writing on the wall to Belshazzar in this Scripture:

THIS IS THE INTERPRETATION OF THE THING: MENE—GOD HATH NUMBERED THY KINGDOM AND FINISHED IT.

What Senator Crane has done in stepping down and out, before his election to the famous Down and Out Club, others have done. Senator Aldrich, a wise doctor when it came to feeling the public pulse, did it. Senator Depew, dubbed the "Peach" by a certain New York constituency, knew when he was ripe, without being "rotten ripe," as Colonel T. R. is wont to quote.

These men and others who have sacrificed themselves on the office-holding altar of their country have ears to hear and those ears have been kept pretty close to the ground.

What they have heard is something like this:

THE SPIRIT OF PROGRESS IS IN THE AIR IN POLITICS AS WELL AS ALONG OTHER LINES. THE DAY OF THE POLITICAL BOSS IS GONE. THE PEOPLE ARE COMING INTO THEIR OWN. WHEN IT COMES TO PUBLIC OFFICE, NO REACTIONARIES NEED APPLY.

Senator Crane heard this. He knows just what it means and, being a discerning business man and politician, he has anticipated his fate and quit.

The passing of Senator Crane offers a splendid chance for the placing of another Democrat in the United States Senate. There is no reason why Massachusetts should not have a Democratic United States Senator. The majority of the people of this State believe in the DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES for which the party stands, regardless of party designation.

Put up the most progressive and most aggressive and able Democrat in the State, push his candidacy AND ELECT HIM TO TAKE CRANE'S SEAT.

He Never Had a Chance

That is what nine men out of ten who are failures say. Look out that you don't say it yourself.

Yum's little fighter did so well that the money was coming in faster than he could spend it. It was really the first soft dough he ever had, and it went as it came, easy. He learned to play pool around the neighborhood; then later was so good that he meandered up to the big public pool parlors, where they played for money. He might as well be seen up there with the big sports. Who was better known than Yum?

He met a boy from his old town up there and got an earfull of news. Some of his school friends were in business and getting along fairly. Of course, it would be years before they'd get what he made in a week. He smiled as he heard of them. Poor boobs!

An uncle wrote Yum offering him a position in a big store with a chance to advance, but he couldn't see it at all. Why work like a slave when you can get it by managing fighters? Huh?

The game was flourishing, but there was some talk of putting a stop to it. Yum was a bit worried, but figured boxing too popular to be stopped. He played pool and spent his evenings in pleasure. Why should he worry?—By TAD.

The Child as the Unanswerable Argument Against Divorce

By DOROTHY DIX

We may say that each of us has a right to his or her own happiness. We may say that an unworthy husband or wife forfeits whatever claim they have upon us. We may say that when we make a mistake in marriage there is no more reason we should be bound forever to it than there is why we should continue to be the victims of any other error of judgment.

We may say that to be forced to live with a husband or wife whom we hate, and who brings out all that is worst in our natures, is demoralizing to our characters—that it condemns us to live in an atmosphere in which all that is beautiful and ideal in life withers and dies as if blown upon by the blast of Siberia. This is true. There is no other such blighting influence in the world as domestic discord. However patiently borne, it turns the very soul into an arid desert, and nobody can blame the individual who seeks to escape from this death-in-life.

There is no answer to the contention that we have a right to save ourselves from the purgatory of an unhappy marriage except the wail of a child, weeping over a wreck of its home. That is nature's relentless reply to the sophistries of philosophy. That is duty's stern call to us to stand at our posts, whatever the cost in suffering, and fulfill the obligations we have taken upon ourselves. When we have children we have given hostages to fortune, and are no longer free to seek our own happiness. It is they who are to be considered first.

The children may be divorced, if it seems best to them, but above the noise of warring couples with children comes the cry of the helpless little ones who are left fatherless or motherless in the breaking up of a home.

Pathetic Letter of a Little Girl Whose Home Is to Be Broken Up.

Listen to this pathetic, curious, unchildish letter that comes to me from a little girl. She writes in a little, round, schoolgirl handwriting:

"Dear Miss Dix—I am thirteen years old, and I read all your articles in the AMERICAN. Now, I want you to tell me what you think of my case. My home is about to be broken up by a woman. Of course, she is younger than my mother, but not any better looking nor one-half so good. Tell me, please, is that the way the world is going? Are there no more happy homes? My brothers and sisters and I have made up our minds that we will never get married. No one could have been more devoted than my mother has been. She has been a slave to us all, and this is what she gets. Please answer me soon. What do you think of a thief who robs little children of their father?

"A Heartbroken Little Girl."

Poor little girl, who at thirteen has seen all of the gold rubbed off of Cupid's wings, and who has witnessed so many family spats that she has resolved never to get married! Poor little girl, who at thirteen judges between mother and father, and contemptuously condemns father! Poor little girl, whose childhood has been darkened by the sad and sordid knowledge of the world, who discusses affinities and broken homes with her baby sisters and brothers, and who bears on her little shoulders the burden of her parents' weakness and sin!

Doesn't the mere thought of her bring stinging tears to your eyes? And don't you feel that nothing can justify the parents in the way they are doing? Is it not the plain duty of that father and mother to keep a home together for their children, and to make their children happy, and give them the chance in life that only children have who are brought up in the environment of decent family life?

Compared to the welfare of these little ones what is the lure of some other woman to the man? How small a matter even the wife's jealousy and righteous indignation!

The real victims of divorce are the children, not alone because they are made half orphans and homeless by it, but because it destroys their faith in all that is good and true. How can you teach purity to a girl whose mother has the slime of the divorce courts on her garments? How can you teach honor to the boy who knows of his father's dishonor? How can you teach steadfastness to duty to children who have seen their parents turn cowardly away from a hard situation? How can the weak breed strength into the little ones?

Of course it will be said that when a father and mother cannot agree, and live in perpetual discord with each other, the children are better off with either one than with both; that no home at all is better than a home divided against itself.

To this argument one can only say that parents have no right to make such a home. No matter how deeply they may feel in their own breasts that they have gotten the wrong life partners, and that some other man and woman are their real mates, they are bound by every law of decency to hide this from their children, and to keep the doors of their skeleton closet fast locked against inquisitive little eyes. To be tempted is the lot of all. To yield to temptation is the act of the craven.

The Duty of Parents to Protect Their Children Even from Themselves.

It is the paramount duty of parents to protect their children even from themselves, and for fathers and mothers to drag their children into their squabbles is as bad as if they threw the helpless little creatures into the midst of a battle where they would be trampled upon and mangled. For a father and mother to let their children become cognizant of their amours is worse than taking them into a leprosy camp. It defiles the little minds beyond the power of cleansing.

As for the woman who would lend herself to the breaking up of a home in which there are children, the curse of God is upon her. Truly it were better for her that she should tie a millstone about her neck and cast herself into the sea than that she should offend one of these little ones.

Save Mrs. Cusumano from the Death Chair

To Kill a WOMAN and a MOTHER in This Manner Would Be a Blot on Massachusetts Which Time Would Not Rub Out

Mrs. Lena Cusumano is a prisoner in the Plymouth jail, sentenced to be electrocuted in the week beginning June 2. The charge against Mrs. Cusumano—and a jury convicted her of it—was that she assisted a man, with whom she was in love, to kill her husband. The man is sentenced to die at the same time.

Accepting the verdict of the jury as a just one, the fact remains that Mrs. Cusumano is a WOMAN and a MOTHER.

New England will not soon forget the hanging of Mary Rogers in Vermont. Governor Charles J. Bell, thin-lipped and grim, was much in the limelight then. He REFUSED TO COMMUTE HER DEATH SENTENCE TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT. No one hears of Bell now, politically or otherwise.

It is safe to say that the best thought of Massachusetts is strongly opposed to the electrocution of Mrs. Cusumano. No woman has ever been put to death in this old State since the days of witchcraft.

The electrocution of Mrs. Cusumano would be a red blot on the escutcheon of Massachusetts which all time could not rub out.

The AMERICAN does not believe that Mrs. Cusumano will go to the death chair. This newspaper does not believe that Governor Foss and the members of the Executive Council, WHEN THEY THINK THE MATTER OVER VERY CAREFULLY, will permit a woman to die in this manner.

The Truants

By WILLIAM W. WHITELOCK

MAMA says the fairies grew weary
Of not having people believe
That fairies exist in this dreary,
Sad world, where so many hearts grieve—
And so their belongings and fixings,
Their dresses, light, flimsy as air,
In thimblelike cases they packed with their laces,
And fled away no one knows where.

Now, ever since then we've been waiting
And hoping to see them return,
Some Spring, when the birds are all mating,
And violets are under the fern.

But only perhaps a stray fairy
Has ever come back, now and then,
To cheer with its presence the child of poor peasants,
Then quickly has vanished again.

But I have been thinking and thinking
That maybe if everyone tried
And wished for a year without winking,
The fairies, perhaps, might decide
To come back and live as they used to
And help all the children be good—
We'll wish and believe it so hard they'll believe it,
And can't stay away if they would.

Appetizing Authors

By JAMES RAVENSCROFT

THE appetite for food and drink, like all corporeal instincts, is susceptible to mental suggestion; and that is why one may be made agreeably hungry by reading, especially when the author is an expert literary chef and sets out his edibles with a wholesomeness and sincerity of art that are born of only a good appetite.

Dickens and Doyle are perhaps the greatest of the plain English literary chefs. They invigorate the appetite as well as the fancy. Their characters dine satisfyingly, when they dine at all, and the menu, though usually simple, gives the reader a pleasantly tantalizing underthought as to how long it will be to the next meal.

Dickens was a literary chef who knew how to provide a fare best adapted to the inner man of Englishmen. His leg o' mutton, ale and stout bread, for instance, made a staying combination, and the reader may be duly pardoned if he or she feels tempted to assimilate a liberal portion of the repast, when, in the book, he or she sits down at a table so substantially spread.

Dickens' reader more often visits where boards are bare and empty hunger feeds on crusts, but when one of his hale and hearty persons dines the reader gets a suggestion of a robust appetite and an enviable digestion.

What reliisher of roast beef has not been deeply moved by the dinners in the comfortable chambers of Sherlock Holmes? The greatest of mythical detectives enjoyed such an admirably sound and unfailing appetite.

The reader's mouth must surely water at the sight of Sherlock and Dr. Watson partaking unreservedly of choice, well-roasted cuts and drinking of refreshing stuff from bottles. Quite enough to stimulate the appetite of the between-meals reader!

Stevenson's appetite was curtailed by physical frailty, but his book characters were aware of the dynamic values of the square meal. Some of his French stories are wonderfully appetizing.

Kipling, portrayer of men under near, far and all kinds of conditions, is not generally a brace for sagging appetites; but Kim, the little beggar, with his rice bowl, gives one a hungry turn now and then.

For a savory mental whiff that makes one lean toward the pantry, let the reader be a guest of the jolly ex-sailor and the courteous one-armed old ex-soldier in their quaint little cottage at Dapplemere, in Jeffery Farnol's lovable story, "The Money Moon." The reader is almost certain to relish the shrimp and hot muffins and tea quite as much as did Mr. Bellew, when he was a guest beneath that humble but contented and happy roof.

The American novel, like the average American, is in too much of a hurry to devote more than passing attention to food. The rapid action would expire with ennui if the hero or heroine stopped to eat a sandwich.

"THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In a newspaper of recent date, in the "Letters to the Editor" column, there appeared a communication stating that when "The Star Spangled Banner" was played by a theatre orchestra not long ago almost half of the audience arose sheepishly and reluctantly.

This correspondent is evidently not in sympathy with the custom of the citizens of a country rising when their national anthem is rendered. He asks: "Why should there be any reverential rising at all?"—and that "rising to a thing made with hands is no better than the bowing down of the heathen in his blindness to wood and stone."

The answer is: That in all ages and among all people, the symbolic emblem of the national personification has been, is now, and ever shall be rendered reverential homage! In his own strain of Christian quotation he should remember the command, "Render unto Caeser the things that are Caesar's."

I would like to recall to our sheepish, reluctant and hesitating citizens the opinion of Sir Walter Scott of those who love not and honor not their native land:

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land?
If such there be—go mark him well!
For him no minstrel numbers swell!
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim,
Despite these titles, power and pelf,
The wretch, concentered all in self,
Living, shall forfeit fair renown;
And doubly dying shall go down
To the vile mud from which he sprung,
Without a knell, unfold, unhonored and unsung.
